is the most widely distributed bird species in the world occurring on all continents except Antarctica and on most human inhabited islands Although its Latin name is Passer domesticus it is certainly not domesticated In fact it is widely regarded as a pest species and is consequently not protected in most of its extensive range This combination of ubiquity and minimal legal protection has contributed to its wide use in studies by avian biologists throughout the world The purpose of this book is to review and summarize the results of these global studies on House Sparrows and to provide a springboard for future studies on the species House Sparrows have been used to study natural selection in introduced species circadian rhythms and the neuroendocrine control of the avian annual cycle One current question of considerable interest concerns the catastrophic House Sparrow population declines in several urban centers in Europe Is the House Sparrow a contemporary canary in the mine Other topics of broad interest include the reproductive and flock foraging strategies of sparrows and sexual selection and the function of the male badge in the species Anderson also explores the role of the House Sparrow in disease transmission to humans and their domesticated animals Cultural Conundrums Natasha Barnes, 2010-02-11 Cultural Conundrums investigates the passions of race gender and national identity that make culture a continually embattled public sphere in the Anglophone Caribbean today Academics journalists and ordinary citizens have weighed in on the ideological meanings to be found in the minutiae of cultural life from the use of skin bleaching agents in the beauty rituals of working class Jamaican women to the rise of sexually suggestive costumes in Trinidad's Carnival Natasha Barnes traces the use of cultural arguments in the making of Caribbean modernity looking at the cultural performances of the Anglophone Caribbean cricket carnival dancehall calypso and beauty pageants and their major literary portrayals Barnes historicizes the problematic linkage of culture and nation to argue that Caribbean anticolonialism has given expressive culture a critical place in the region's identity politics Her provocative readings of foundational thinkers C L R James and Sylvia Winters will engender discussion and debate among the Caribbean intellectual community This impressively interdisciplinary study will make important contributions to the fields of Afro diaspora studies postcolonial studies literary studies performance studies and sociology Postcolonial cultural criticism is celebrated for its mastery of generalization and condemned for its inability to historicize Cultural Conundrums is unique in its ability to find a middle ground It touches on some of the most important and contentious issues in the field This book will account for why it was in those small islands that what we now call cultural studies was invented Simon Gikandi Princeton University Natasha Barnes is Associate Professor of African American Studies and English at the University of Illinois at Chicago Mensa Presents a
