The Sacred In Contemporary Haiku:

The Sacred in Contemporary Haiku Robert Epstein, 2014-12-03 Horace the ancient Roman poet declared that every old poem is sacred Whatever could he have meant by that The contributors to this haiku collection pour forth their contemporary poetic response by calling our attention to unassuming moments in church and temple meadow and mountain on the train and on the trail where they find their hearts brimming over with reverence awe wonder silence joy affection and love No moment or event is too fleeting or too small to embody the sacred indeed as the English poet William Blake famously observed the universe itself may be found in a single grain of sand There is even a place for doubt uncertainty sensuality and humor in a world that is infused with the sacred Be the first to behold with the haiku poets in these pages the abundance of sweetness and holiness that surrounds us wherever we are whatever our circumstances In doing so your very life may become a blessing or a poem as the test of time hallows the poetry here Haiku—The Sacred Art Margaret D. McGee, 2010-12-30 Have a haiku moment when your mind stops and your heart moves Writing haiku offers the chance to honor hold and fully experience a fleeting moment that takes you out of yourself a moment that hints at the deeper unity that lies beneath the surface of things from Chapter One In this encouraging guide for both beginning and experienced haiku writers Margaret D McGee shows how writing haiku can be a consciously spiritual practice for seekers of any faith tradition or no tradition Drawing from her experience as a spiritual retreat leader and published haiku writer McGee takes the mystery and intimidation out of beginning to write haiku For those already on their way she provides helpful hints and exercises to broaden and deepen both your haiku artistry and your appreciation of haiku as part of your spiritual life With humor and encouragement she offers step by step exercises for both individuals and writing groups and shows how haiku can help you Pay attention to the world around you to connect with sacred moments Overcome fear and self doubt to access your innate creativity Explore and use haiku together with spiritual practices in your own faith tradition Make haiku a spiritual part of your daily routine winter pruning Wanda D. A Poetic Language of Ageing Olga V. Lehmann,Kate de Medeiros,Oddgeir Synnes,2023-06-15 Exploring the potential of poetry and poetic language as a means of conveying perspectives on ageing and later life this book examines questions such as how can we understand ageing and later life and how can we capture the ambiguities and complexities that the experiences of growing old in time and place entail As poetic language illuminates transfigures and enchants our being in the world it also offers insights into the existential questions that are amplified as we age including the vulnerabilities and losses that humble us and connect us Literary gerontology and narrative gerontology have highlighted the importance of linguistic representations of ageing While the former has been concerned primarily with the analysis of published literary works the latter has foregrounded the individual and collective meaning making through narrative resources in old age There has however been less interest in how poetic language both as a genre and as a practice can illuminate ageing This volume suggests a path towards the poetics of ageing by means of presenting analyses of published poetry on ageing written by poets from William Shakespeare to Wallace Stevens the use of reading and writing poetry among ordinary people in old age and the poetic nuances that emerge from other literary practices and contexts in relation to ageing including personal poetic reflections from many of the contributing authors The volume brings together international scholars from disciplinary backgrounds as diverse as cultural psychology literary studies theology sociology narrative medicine cultural gerontology and narrative gerontology and will deploy a variety of empirical and critical methodologies to explore how poetry and poetic language may challenge dominant discourses and illuminate alternative understandings of ageing
