SMELL Andreas Philippopoulos-Mihalopoulos, Danilo Mandic, Caterina Nirta, Andrea Pavoni, 2023-12-04 Although somewhat marginal in relation to the other senses smell is the most potent way of anchoring ourselves to the world We subconsciously find our place in it by sniffing our body the body of the one next to us the room in which we are the culture with which we are familiar There is an incessant olfactory flow consisting of bodies human and nonhuman that are agents of generation consumption diffusion reproduction and dissolution of odours As they move or pause as they cluster with others or try to move away these bodies constantly partake in this olfactory flow this dense planetary swirl that leaves nothing outside The law aims at presenting itself as rational and objective Smell on the other hand is one of the least integrated senses in the legal edifice in comparison to say seeing and hearing This can be attributed mainly to the fact that sense making of smell and law are different even antithetical Smell operates undercurrent tickling the olfactory antennas of individual and collective bodies while habitually hiding behind other sensory volumes Law on the other hand has an interest in appearing present universal constant Olfactory sense making relies on its elusiveness legal sense making invests in its obviousness Yet the two can interact in most unexpected ways as this volume amply shows If anything smell airs the way in which law conceptualises and contextualises its own actuality Smell brings law forth by allowing it to show its underbelly its elusive sense making that is invariably sacrificed in preference to the necessity of legal impressions of constancy However smell's fragmentary discontinuous and unstable nature despite all the ordering that goes to it poses a peculiar challenge to the law This volume sets out to investigate this juncture

The Scent of Tomorrow's Garden Raymond Brunell, 2025-08-13 In the quiet northern Wisconsin town of Eden Creek botanical illustrator Lily Hamilton returns home after five years away to confront a mystery at her grandmother Martha's house But the moment she arrives she knows something is wrong The garden shouldn't be alive not in March not with sunflowers towering over the roofline and certainly not emitting frequencies that trigger synesthetic responses in both grandmother and granddaughter For Lily who has spent her life managing her sensory processing differences these subtle synesthetic anomalies aren't just noticeable they're impossible to ignore The garden seems to recognize her responding to her presence with shifts in tone and rhythm that trigger flashes of memories that don't entirely belong to her. Hidden among the impossibly vibrant plants, Lily discovers evidence of her grandmother's secret work: a network of botanical anomalies that shouldn't exist outside of laboratory conditions. Each plant seems calibrated to a specific frequency, preserving fragments of conversations, emotions, and moments the Hamilton women have tried to forget. As she reconnects with Martha after their long estrangement, Lily uncovers a connection between the garden's properties and her family's history of synesthesia. Perceptual differences they've hidden for generations. The garden isn't just preserving memories; it's amplifying a form of communication that most people can't access. But someone else wants the garden's secrets. When a stranger begins asking questions about Martha in town and unusual lights are reported at night, what began as a reluctant reconciliation becomes a fight to protect something neither woman fully understands. Complicating matters is the return of childhood connections and the involvement of Dr. Eleanor Shaw, the neurologist who has helped Martha understand her unique perception. As the garden continues to produce impossible blooms—phosphorescent roses that pulse with Bach's Passacaglia, peonies that sing in Clara's voice—Lily and Martha must work together to interpret what the garden is trying to tell them. As winter threatens the impossible blooms, Lily must embrace the very sensory differences she's spent her life suppressing to understand the garden's true purpose. The frequencies are evolving, revealing a pattern that points to a buried family secret, one that could either heal the fractures in their relationship or permanently alter the fabric of reality in Eden Creek. Every night, the garden's scent grows stronger, carrying hints of seasons that haven't arrived yet, the scent of tomorrow. And with each day that passes, the line between memory and premonition, between technology and magic, blurs further. The Scent of Tomorrow's Garden is a lyrical exploration of neurodivergent experience wrapped in a rural mystery. In this small town where the extraordinary grows alongside the ordinary, Lily discovers that authenticity is not just a personal journey but perhaps the key to understanding a form of communication that transcends the limitations of neurotypical perception.

Transcripts of the Sacred in Nigeria Nimi Wariboko, 2023-06-20 Transcripts of the Sacred in Nigeria explores how the sacred plays itself out in contemporary Africa. It offers a creative analysis of the logics and dynamics of the sacred understood as the constellation of impossibilities available to a given community in religion, politics, epistemology, economic development, and reactionary violence. Using the tools of philosophy, postcolonial criticism, political theory, African studies, religious studies, and cultural studies, Wariboko reveals the intricate connections between the sacred and the existential conditions that characterize disorder, terror, trauma, despair, and hope in the postcolonial Africa. The sacred Wariboko argues is not about religion or divinity but the set of possibilities opened to a people or denied them, the sum total of possibilities conceivable given their level of social, technological, and economic development. These possibilities profoundly speak to the present political moment in sub-Saharan Africa. The Thirteen Omelettes of Possibility Vanessa Golden, 2024-12-17 Escape to Harmony Creek, Maine, a town steeped in pine-scented air and the whispers of forgotten magic.
