known and unfamiliar texts in intriguing and imaginative new ways that make us re think literature's relation with the senses. A selection of poems, essays and fiction exploring these texts with reference to both the little known cultural history of perfume use and the appreciation of natural fragrance in Victorian Britain. It shows how scent and perfume are used to convey not merely moods and atmospheres but the nuances of the aesthete or decadent's carefully cultivated identity, personality or sensibility. Journal of the Royal United Service Institution, Whitehall Yard, 1897. The Haymakers Steven R. Hoffbeck, 2014-12-11. Making hay has always been hard work just about the hardest work on a farm. Spanning 150 years, The Haymakers tells a story of the labor and heartbreak suffered by five families struggling to make the hay that fed their livestock, a story not just about grass, alfalfa and clover but also about sweat and tears, toil and loss. The Haymakers is an epic of the history of man's struggle with nature as well as man's struggle against machines. It relates the story of farmers and their obligations to their families, to the animals they fed and to the land they tended. Hoffbeck also documents and preserves the commonplace methods of haymaking. He describes the tools and the methods of haymaking as well as the relentless demands of the farm. Using diaries, agricultural guidebooks and personal interviews, the folkways of cutting, raking and harvesting hay have been recorded in these chapters. In the end, this book is not so much about agricultural history as it is about family history, personal history, how farm families survive, even persevere. How the Soviet Jew Was Made Sasha Senderovich, 2022-07-05. In post 1917 Russian and Yiddish literature, films and reportage, Sasha Senderovich finds a new cultural figure, the Soviet Jew. Suddenly mobile after more than a century of restrictions under the tsars, Jewish authors created characters who traversed space and history, carrying with them the dislodged practices and archetypes of a lost world. E.M. Forster Surabhi Bandyopādhyāya, 1995. The Price of Fame Diana Grazier, 2003-09. She has it all: wealth, beauty and fame. She also carries an eternal flame. It burns within her heart and threatens to consume her very soul. At age four, actress Joy Bryant is cast as the star of a long running television series. She experiences the trials and tribulations of many child stars, such as weight ultimatums, paparazzi photographers and the loss of her childhood itself. As she reaches adulthood, she finds that her perceptions of the world are distorted from those who do normal everyday things and who lead normal everyday lives. She is plagued by a stalker and also by Gary Shawn, a brilliant cynical reporter who follows her career with a caustic wit and poisoned pen. He criticizes her for believing in fairy tales that teach girls there is only one person in the world that is meant for them, yet he carries an eternal flame of his own. When Joy's life is threatened, she drops out of the public eye and embarks on a journey filled with self-discovery. She learns that the loss of her childhood is only a small price of fame. The ultimate price lies within a devastating choice that she must make. Journal of the Royal United Service Institution, 1897. The Farmers' Register, 1839. Horse Senses Susan McBane, 2012-01-15. Horses perceive the world differently from humans because their senses developed differently through evolution to cope with different ways of living and surviving. Horses are essentially prey flight animals. The horse's senses therefore determine how the world appears to him and how he reacts to it As the horse s perception and understanding are v      The Routledge History of the Senses Andrew Kettler,Will Tullett,2025-06-26 The Routledge History of the Senses presents readers with an overview of the field As well as pointing to directions for the future of the discipline it illustrates the extent to which the subject offers a considerable space for the exploration of diverse historical topics through the lens of sensory experience The handbook brings together essays and case studies from some of the leading academics on the history of the senses Together they not only chart topics and arguments in existing scholarship but introduce fresh methodologies for future analyses Specifically the chapters collectively show that the senses of the historical body often portray the intensity of the invasion of capital upon the functions of the mind throughout global history As a global history this work arrives at a time when many sensory historians are looking for a touchstone for moving beyond the often heavily Western frameworks that dominate the existing literature on the historical senses Not only will this book appeal to students and scholars of the history of senses visual studies art history food studies and many of the social sciences but individual chapters also offer useful reading material for a wide range of history modules and contemporary topics      Destiny in the Fog Delpha Romeiser,2008-04 In the summer of 1960 an extremely dense fog blanketed the Ozark foothills Pandemonium ensued The local law enforcement was stretched thin and all the hospitals were filled with patients who ran afoul in the havoc Edward Kime had no idea that his whole world was about to turn upside down Driving in his yellow Thunderbird he gets lost in the gray nothingness on his way to his friend s cabin at Lake Heed and loses more than just his way Lloyd Parker also has a problem He is on the run from the police In his flight from justice he encounters many new people who know nothing of his past While battling his own demons Lloyd s world suddenly collides with Edward s and both their destinies are changed forever Only divine intervention and the power of love can rescue these two lost souls      The Practice of Medicine Robley Dunglison,1848      Knight of the Road J.
