The Sky Blue Waters Report March:

Every Day a Nightmare William H. Bartsch, 2010-07-23 In December 1941 the War Department sent two transports and a freighter carrying 103 P 40 fighters and their pilots to the Philippines to bolster Gen Douglas MacArthur's Far East Air Force. They were then diverted to Australia with new orders to ferry the P 40s to the Philippines from Australia through the Dutch East Indies. But on the same day as the second transport reached its destination on January 12, 1942, the first of the key refueling stops in the East Indies fell to rapidly advancing Japanese forces, resulting in a break in their ferry route and another change in their orders. This time the pilots would fly their aircraft to Java to participate in the desperate Allied defense of that ultimate Japanese objective. Except for the pilots from the Philippines, almost all of the other pilots eventually assigned to the five provisional pursuit squadrons ordered to Java were recent graduates of flying school with just a few hours on the P 40. Only forty-three of them made it to their assigned destination; the rest suffered accidents in Australia, were shot down over Bali and Darwin, or were lost in the sinking of the USS Langley as it carried thirty-two of them to Java. Even those who did reach the secret field on Java wondered if they had been sacrificed for no purpose. As the Japanese air assault intensified daily, the Allied defense collapsed. Only eleven Japanese aircraft fell to the P 40s. Author William H. Bartsch has pored through personal diaries and memoirs of the participants, cross-checking these primary sources against Japanese aerial combat records of the period and supplementing them with official records and other American, Dutch, and Australian accounts. Bartsch's thorough and meticulous research yields a narrative that situates the Java pursuit pilots' experiences within the context of the overall strategic situation in the early days of the Pacific theater. Blue Skies, Blue Seas Martin Heger, Lukas Vashold, Anabella Palacios, Mala Alahmadi, Marjory-Anne Bromhead, Marcelo Acerbi, 2022-05-04 While economic and social indicators in many Middle East and North Africa (MENA) countries have improved over the past three decades, the region's blue natural assets—clean air, healthy seas, and coastlines—have degraded virtually everywhere. Air pollution levels in the region's cities are among the highest in the world. Per capita marine plastic pollution is among the highest in the world. Coastal erosion rates are the second fastest in the world. These combined challenges threaten local communities' livelihoods and economies. In fact, the economic cost of MENA's deteriorating skies and seas is estimated at more than 3 percent of GDP per year. Blue Skies, Blue Seas: Air Pollution, Marine Plastics, and Coastal Erosion in the Middle East and North Africa reviews integrated solutions that the authors identify as the four I's: Inform stakeholders about the sources of these challenges; Provide incentives that improve environmental outcomes for the public and the private sector; Strengthen institutions to lower air and plastic pollution and to mitigate uncontrolled development and erosion of coastlines; Invest in abatement options and promote sustainable solutions. Restoring MENA's blue skies and seas will benefit the health, livelihoods, and incomes of residents. There will inevitably be trade-offs, but choosing a path of green growth will create jobs, diversify economies, and make the region a better place for current and future generations. The actions of policy makers today will shape the trajectory of economies and communities for decades to come      A Blue Sea of Blood Donald M. Kehn,2009-01-15 On the morning of March 1 1942 the WWI era destroyer USS Edsall under orders to deliver some forty Army Air Force fighter crews to the beleaguered island of Java split off from the USS Whipple and the tanker Pecos and was never seen again by Allied forces Despite the later discovery of bodies identified as Edsall crew members near a remote airfield on the coast of Celebes what happened to the ship remains a matter of mystery and perhaps deliberate obfuscation This book explores the many puzzling facets of the Edsall s disappearance in order to finally tell the full story of the fate of the vessel and her crew Based on exhaustive research of the historical record including newly deciphered Japanese documents and previously unrevealed material from the crew s family members A Blue Sea of Blood offers a painstaking reconstruction of the ship s history The book investigates not only the Edsall s mysterious final action but also her wide ranging pre war career and the curious uses to which her story was put generally under false pretenses first by the pre war US Navy and then by the Japanese wartime propaganda machine And finally military historian Donald Kehn considers the circumstances surrounding the curious obscurity of the Edsall s heroic service and final battle in American histories Redressing six decades of official indifference Kehn s account recovers a significant chapter missing from the history of World War II and tells a long overdue story of courage and tragic loss      Selected Water Resources Abstracts ,1988      Twixt the Devil and the Deep Blue Sea Janet Kinrade Dethick,Anne M. Corke,2014-11-06 During her distinguished career submarine HMS Saracen was responsible for sinking thousands of tons of Axis shipping But in August 1943 her luck ran out when she was mortally wounded by depth charges from two Italian corvettes the last Allied submarine to be sunk by the Italians Forced to surface she was scuttled by her crew who were taken prisoner But HMS Saracen s story is more than the story of a submarine It is the story of her crew and their experiences both before and after her loss From the cat and mouse games of war at sea to their harrowing escape from their stricken ship from being sent to Dachau to finding themselves on a POW train bombed by the Americans from being shot by the Germans to being assisted by the Rome Escape Line from being sheltered by Italian families to joining the partisans their stories of escape of flight of capture are as varied as the men themselves But their shared goal was to return home safely to their families and sadly some never did      L.M.B.C. reports. 1970s been severely depleted and argue that a large scale cull of the population is needed to save the cod In The Devil and the Deep Blue Sea Linda Pannozzo finds that the truth is much more complex and that the seals are scapegoats for the federal government s mismanagement of the cod stocks deflecting attention away from the effects of global warming and the continued use of destructive fishing methods The collapse of the cod its failure to recover and the recent recommendations for large scale grey seal culls are stark reminders of how fisheries science and public policy are increasingly estranged from each other EPA Reports Bibliography United States.
