, 2022-09-26 This collected volume focuses on the history of Western translation of premodern Chinese texts from the seventeenth to the twentieth century Divided into three parts nine chapters feature close readings of translated texts micro studies of how three translations came into being and broad based surveys that inquire into the causes of historical change Among the specific questions addressed are What stylistic generic and discursive permutations were undergone by Chinese texts as they crossed linguistic borders Who were the main agents in this centuries long effort to transmit Chinese culture to the West How did readership considerations affect the form that particular translations take More generally the contributors are concerned with the relevance of current research paradigms like those of World Literature transcultural reception and the rewriting of translation history Liberation by Oppression Thomas Szasz, 2017-09-29 Originally called mad doctoring psychiatry began in the seventeenth century with the establishing of madhouses and the legal empowering of doctors to incarcerate persons denominated as insane Until the end of the nineteenth century every relationship between psychiatrist and patient was based on domination and coercion as between master and slave Psychiatry its emblem the state mental hospital was a part of the public sphere the sphere of coercion The advent of private psychotherapy at the end of the nineteenth century split psychiatry in two some patients continued to be the involuntary inmates of state hospitals others became the voluntary patients of privately practicing psychotherapists Psychotherapy was officially defined as a type of medical treatment but actually was a secular medical version of the cure of souls Relationships between therapist and patient Thomas Szasz argues was based on cooperation and contract as is relationships between employer and employee or between clergyman and parishioner Psychotherapy its emblem the therapist s office was a part of the private sphere the contract Through most of the twentieth century psychiatry was a house divided half slave and half free During the past few decades psychiatry became united again all relations between psychiatrists and patients regardless of the nature of the interaction between them are now based on actual or potential coercion This situation is the result of two major reforms that deprive therapist and patient alike of the freedom to contract with one another Therapists now have a double duty they must protect all mental patients involuntary and voluntary hospitalized or outpatient incompetent or competent from themselves They must also protect the public from all patients Persons designated as mental patients may be exempted from responsibility for the deleterious consequences of their own behavior if it is attributed to mental illness
