series The Enuma Elis also spelled Enuma Elish is the Babylonian creation mythos named after its opening words It was recovered by Austen Henry Layard in 1849 in fragmentary form in the ruined Library of Ashurbanipal at Nineveh Mosul Iraq and published by George Smith in 1876 PERHAPS no section of Babylonian literature has been more generally studied than the legends which record the Creation of the world On the publication of the late Mr George Smith s work The Chaldean Account of Genesis which appeared some twenty seven years ago it was recognized that there was in the Babylonian account of the Creation as it existed in the seventh century before Christ much which invited comparison with the corresponding narrative in the Book of Genesis It is true that the Babylonian legends which had been recovered and were first published by him were very fragmentary and that the exact number and order of the Tablets or sections of which they were composed were quite uncertain and that although they recorded the creation of the heavens and of the heavenly bodies they contained no direct account of the creation of man In spite of this however their resemblance to the Hebrew narrative was unmistakable and in consequence they at once appealed to a far larger circle of students than would otherwise have been the case The Enuma Elis has about a thousand lines and is recorded in Old Babylonian on seven clay tablets each holding between 115 and 170 lines of Sumero Akkadian cuneiform script Most of Tablet V has never been recovered but aside from this lacuna the text is almost complete A duplicate copy of Tablet V has been found in Sultantepe ancient Huzirina near the modern town of Sanliurfa in Turkey This epic is one of the most important sources for understanding the Babylonian worldview centered on the supremacy of Marduk and the creation of humankind for the service of the gods Its primary original purpose however is not an exposition of theology or theogony but the elevation of Marduk the chief god of Babylon above other Mesopotamian gods The Enuma Elis exists in various copies from Babylon and Assyria The version from Ashurbanipal s library dates to the 7th century BCE The composition of the text probably dates to the Bronze Age to the time of Hammurabi or perhaps the early Kassite era roughly 18th to 16th centuries BCE although some scholars favour a later date of c 1100 BCE

The Seven Tablets of Creation Leonard William King, 2010-04-04 The En ma Eli is the Babylonian creation myth recovered by Austen Henry Layard in 1849 in fragmentary form in the ruined Library of Ashurbanipal at Nineveh Mosul Iraq and published by George Smith in 1876 The En ma Eli has about a thousand lines and is recorded in Old Babylonian on seven clay tablets each holding between 115 and 170 lines of text When the 7 tablets that contain this myth were first discovered evidence indicated that it was used as a ritual myth meaning it was recited during a ceremony or celebration That celebration is now known to be the Akitu festival or Babylonian new year This myth tells of the creation of the world and of Marduk s triumph over Tiamat and how it relates to him becoming king of the gods In Enuma Elish the gods consult before creating man 6 4 while Genesis has Let us make man in our own image Genesis 1 26 and in both the creation of man is followed by divine rest This epic is one of the most important sources for understanding the Babylonian worldview centered on the supremacy of Marduk and the creation of humankind for the service of the gods Enuma Elish Leonard King's authoritative work on the Enuma Elish, the Babylonian creation myth. This text includes the complete introduction and the English text of the Enuma Elish and other related texts with selected footnotes. The Enuma Elish is the earliest written creation myth in which the God Marduk battles the chaos Goddess Tiamat and her evil minions. The name Enuma Elish is derived from the first two words of the myth meaning "When in the Height." Tiamat takes the form of a gigantic snake and Marduk battles and defeats her using an arsenal of super weapons. After his victory, Marduk is made the leader of the Gods by acclamation. Marduk divides Tiamat's corpse into two portions: the upper half becoming the sky and the lower half the earth. Marduk then creates humanity from his blood and bone. The Enuma Elish has long been considered by scholars to be primary source material for the book of Genesis. It has also been hypothesized that this is a legend about the overthrow of the matriarchy or records of some cosmic catastrophe.
