

COMPARISON OF EVOLUTION MECHANISMS: SUMMARY

Lamarck's Hypothesis: The Inheritance of Acquired Characteristics

1. A changing environment creates a need for certain features to be developed in order to survive.*
2. "Acquired Characteristics": Through use and/or non-use, those features needed for survival are developed in each individual.
3. Inheritance: Those characteristics developed ("acquired") by individuals are somehow passed on to their offspring, who can continue that development...
4. New Species: Eventually, over many generations, enough differences have developed that we can say we have a new species.

Darwin's Hypothesis: Natural Selection

1. Overproduction: More offspring produced than will ultimately survive and reproduce.
2. Variation: Inheritable features vary from individual to individual.
3. Change in environment: Changes in climate, topography, food supply, predators, etc.
4. "Struggle for existence": Mainly competition within the species, for food, habitat, survival from being eaten.
5. "Survival of the fit" (not necessarily the strongest): Those with more adaptive traits tend to survive longer and/or produce the most offspring; these are the "naturally selected".
6. Inheritance of "selected" features: Traits involved are already inheritable, but may involve new combinations.
7. New Species, better adapted to the new environment: When the collective traits of the population differ significantly from the earlier population, and can no longer reproduce with the earlier population.

QUICK COMPARISON

| LAMARCK                                                                         | DARWIN                                                                                                   |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. Environment changes, thus creating a "need" to change.                              | 1. Variations of inheritable features which already normally exist.                                             |
| 2. Development of new features, "in order to survive,"* or "so that one can survive,"* | 2. Environment "screens out" (or SELECTS) features contributing to survival, and tends to eliminate the others. |
| 3. Newly acquired traits somehow get passed down to offspring.                         | 3. Those with traits which help survival tend to survive and have more offspring, who inherit those traits.     |
| 4. New Species, eventually.                                                            | 4. New Species, eventually.                                                                                     |

* Note the Anthropomorphic wording here ("something non-human having human motivations or attributes"). This could also be referred to as the "Mickey Mouse" syndrome. Be sure to avoid this kind of wording or implication in any explanations of Natural Selection.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS TO AVOID

1. Only groups of organisms can evolve (populations or species); individuals never evolve.
2. Adaptations, in the evolutionary sense, is properly used in class and text, can only "develop" as characteristics of a species, generally over a long period of time, involving many generations; those must not be confused with the "adjustments" an individual might make, consciously or otherwise, enabling it to survive better (such as "developing resistance to a disease" or "adapting to higher altitudes", etc.).

Principles of Evolution: Systems, Species, and the History of Life Jonathan Bard, 2016-09-12 Principles of Evolution considers evolution in the context of systems biology a contemporary approach for handling biological complexity Evolution needs this systems perspective for three reasons First most activity in living organisms is driven by complex networks of proteins and this has direct implications particularly for understanding evo devo and for seeing how variation is initiated Second it provides the natural language for discussing phylogenetic trees Third evolutionary change involves events at levels ranging from the genome to the ecosystem and systems biology provides a context for integrating material of this complexity Understanding evolution means on the one hand describing the history of life and on the other making sense of the principles that drove that history The solution adopted here is to make the science of evolution the primary focus of the book and place the various parts of the history of life in the context of the research that unpicks it This means that the history is widely distributed across the text This concise textbook assumes that the reader has a fair amount of biological knowledge and gives equal weight to all the major themes of evolution the fossil record phylogenetics evodevo and speciation Principles of Evolution will therefore be an interesting and thought provoking read for honors level undergraduates and graduates working in the biological sciences

CBSE (Central Board of Secondary Education) Class X - Science Topic-wise Notes | A Complete Preparation Study Notes with Solved MCQs , Epigenetic Principles of Evolution Nelson R Cabej, 2012 Cabej biology U of Tirana Albania explains the epigenetic principles of evolution as opposed to the theory of evolution as determined by changes in genes and reconstructs the developmental mechanisms of evolutionary changes in metazoans based on empirical evidence He focuses on the mechanisms of the generation of the evolutionary innovations from the influence of environment on heredity rather than the role of natural selection He discusses control systems and determination of phenotypic traits in metazoans neural manipulation of gene expression epigenetic control of reproduction and early development neural control of postphylogenetic development and the epigenetic system of inheritance He follows with description of neural developmental premises of evolutionary adaptation including evolution and stress responses and behavioral adaptation to changes in environment ontogeny and intragenerational developmental plasticity epigenetics of circumevolutionary phenomena and the mechanism of evolutionary change including transgenerational developmental plasticity and the evolution of metazoans and their control system and the origins of evolutionary novelty evolution by loss or by reverting to ancestral characters neural crest determined evolutionary novelties evolutionary convergences species and allopatric speciation and sympatric speciation He presents the available evidence for his theory rather than illustrating an established theory and includes a comparative presentation of the neo Darwinian view to his epigenetic explanation There is no index Annotation 2012 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com OBJECTIVE BIOLOGY NARAYAN

Unity and Disunity in Evolutionary Biology Richard G. Delisle, Maurizio Esposito, David Ceccarelli, 2024-09-02 It is not uncommon to see in major areas of research concerned with science that historical studies are accompanied by the rise of complementary or contradictory historiographies With time it seems scholars discover new approaches to study topics thus questioning old concepts traditions periodizations and historical labels Apparently this has not been the case in evolutionary thought In that area the main historiographic labels such as Darwinian Revolution Eclipse of Darwinism and Modern Synthesis have been in place and largely uncontested for about 50 years Such labels seem to work as irrefutable and often hidden premises of many historical reconstructions philosophical analyses and scientific conceptualizations This volume aims to move beyond this state of affair opening new thinking avenues by revisiting the traditional historiography and laying the groundwork for establishing a new historiography that considers the intertwined threads that compose evolutionary biology Notably evolutionary studies seem to have been marked by the tension between unification attempts and the proliferation of approaches methodologies and styles of thinking As the contributors to this volume illustrate research traditions branched off throughout the history of evolutionary thought before and after Charles Darwin The resulting complexity challenges traditional thinking categories throwing a somewhat different light on a more recent label like the Extended Evolutionary

Adaptive Origins Peter LaFrenière, 2011-01-07 In this text students are invited to rethink psychology by grounding it in the natural sciences with the understanding that evolutionary and developmental processes work together with culture to solve problems of human adaptation These processes are cast as interdependent Development cannot be understood except in the light of evolutionary theory and the best proof of evolution is the fact of development For students of evolutionary psychology all the central topics such as evolved mental modules for theory of mind or language require an understanding of the developmental processes that lead to their expression Genes as important as they are are never the whole story The role of biological factors is explored in chapters outlining evolution development genetics human origins hormones and the brain Then the integrative value of this evolutionary developmental vision in understanding key topics in psychology is illustrated by applying it to traditional area of inquiry including infancy and attachment emotions and their expression social relations with peers cognitive and language development sex differences courtship and mating violence and aggression and cooperation and competition
