Playing Grace Hazel Osmond, 2013-08-15 A romantic comedy about love and learning to let go. Perfect for fans of Sarra Manning, Ellie Adams and Rosie Blake. Grace Surtees has everything carefully under control: her work life, her home life and her love life, especially her love life. But then her boss hires Tate Saunders, a brash American to spice up the gallery tours; his company provides messy and fond of breaking rules. Tate explodes into her tidy existence like a paintball, and Grace hates everything about him. Doesn't she? Because for Grace, the alternative would be simply too terrifying to contemplate: to love Tate rather than hate him would mean leaping out of her comfort zone, and Grace's devotion to order hides some long-kept secrets. Secrets she's sure someone like Tate Saunders could never accept or understand. Crossing Textual Boundaries in International Children's Literature Lance Weldy, 2011-01-18 As the first part of the title indicates, my interest in looking at intertextuality and transformation still maintains a prominent place throughout this book as well. If we believe that no text is an island, then we will understand that the relationships between and within texts across the years become a fascinating place for academic inquiry. I included the word boundaries into the title because we never get tired of voicing our opinions about texts which traverse relegated boundaries such as genre or medium. Not only am I interested in discussing what these changes across boundaries mean socially, historically and culturally, but also what they mean geographically, which accounts for the second part of my title. I am very excited that this book will be placing even more emphasis on children's literature in an international scene than my first book did, in the sense that I have added more scholars on an international level. I hesitate to list the nationalities of all of the contributors here because quite a few have themselves crossed international boundaries in different ways, by either studying abroad or finding permanent residency in foreign countries. Nevertheless, the writers have lived extensively in or identify as being from Australia, Canada, England, Finland, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Israel, Norway, Spain, Sweden, Turkey, the United States of America and Wales.
