Revolutionizing the Family Neil J. Diamant, 2023-04-28 In 1950 China's new Communist government enacted a Marriage Law to allow free choice in marriage and easier access to divorce Prohibiting arranged marriages concubinage and bigamy it was one of the most dramatic efforts ever by a state to change marital and family relationships In this comprehensive study of the effects of that law Neil J Diamant draws on newly opened urban and rural archival sources to offer a detailed analysis of how the law was interpreted and implemented throughout the country In sharp contrast to previous studies of the Marriage Law which have argued that it had little effect in rural areas Diamant argues that the law reshaped marriage and family relationships in significant but often unintended ways throughout the Maoist period His evidence reveals a confused and often conflicted state apparatus as well as cases of Chinese men and women taking advantage of the law to justify multiple sexual encounters to marry for beauty to demand expensive gifts for engagement and to divorce on multiple occasions Moreover he finds those who were best placed to use the law's more liberal provisions were not well educated urbanites but rather illiterate peasant women who had never heard of sexual equality and it was poor men not women who were those most betrayed by the peasant based revolution This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 2000 In 1950 China's new Communist government enacted a Marriage Law to allow free choice in marriage and easier access to divorce Prohibiting arranged marriages concubinage and bigamy it was one of the most dramatic efforts ever by a state to change marriage

English abstract The tumultuous decade of the Seventies in China develops from a suppressive phase determined by the Cultural Revolution and the principles of communist dictatorship to its first unexpected opening to the West with Nixon's visit to China in 1972 We will follow China's history from the death of Mao Zedong and Zhou Enlai in 1976 through the turmoil following the arrest of the Gang of Four in October 1976 the reform course of Deng Xiaoping beginning in 1978 the democracy movement to the deep structural economic reforms with the open door policy in 1980 The Seventies began in China in the dark era of the Cultural Revolution Mao despite his position of being the godlike Supreme Leader of China became aware in the mid Sixties that the pragmatists in the Communist Party were actually running the country Under the pragmatists China finally showed improvement in living standards a more relaxed lifestyle and greater literary and artistic freedom But Mao saw exactly this as a threat to his own person and resented the successful party officials up to the leaders in his immediate vicinity He regarded himself as a Stalin figure In 1956 Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had denounced Stalin Mao decided to make a preemptive strike and destroy the man he regarded as China's Khrushchev Liu Shaoqi as well as Liu's colleague Deng Xiaoping as well as their followers in the party Because they were numerous he came up with a diabolical plan of turning the Chinese against each other in an unprecedented mass campaign of denunciation Mao appealed to lower officials to criticize and denounce their superiors for betraying the revolution students to criticize their teachers and professors workers their supervisors neighbors their neighbors and young people their elders One billion people were turned upside down looking for counterrevolutionary tendencies in each other This he deceptively termed the Cultural Revolution For the culture part Mao involved his wife Jiang Qing Mao accepted his wife's former career as an actress in Shanghai as a sufficient base for overseeing China's intellectual and artistic life
