A Library of the World's Best Literature - Ancient and Modern - Vol.XXVIII (Forty-Five Volumes); Ovid-Pepys Charles Dudley Warner,2008-07-01 Popular American essayist novelist and journalist CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER 1829 1900 was renowned for the warmth and intimacy of his writing which encompassed travelogue biography and autobiography fiction and more and influenced entire generations of his fellow writers Here the prolific writer turned editor for his final grand work a splendid survey of global literature classic and modern and it s not too much to suggest that if his friend and colleague Mark Twain who stole Warner s quip about how everybody complains about the weather but nobody does anything about it had assembled this set it would still be hailed today as one of the great achievements of the book world Highlights from Volume 28 include excerpts from Ovid the philosophy of Thomas Paine the history writings of Francis Parkman the philosophy of Parmenides the writings of Pascal the poetry of Coventry Patmore excerpts from the diary of Samuel Pepys and much much more

Reasons of State Edward Harper,2008-05 In the year 2052 with the world in a state of geopolitical crisis and disaster in the United States s colony on Mars the President and his Machiavellian national security adviser try to recalibrate the global balance of power Creating the New Man Yinghong Cheng,2008-12-31 The idea of eliminating undesirable traits from human temperament to create a new man has been part of moral and political thinking worldwide for millennia During the Enlightenment European philosophers sought to construct an ideological framework for reshaping human nature But it was only among the communist regimes of the twentieth century that such ideas were actually put into practice on a nationwide scale In this book Yinghong Cheng examines three culturally diverse sociopolitical experiments the Soviet Union under Lenin and Stalin China under Mao and Cuba under Castro in an attempt to better understand the origins and development of the new man The book s fundamental concerns are how these communist revolutions strove to create a new morally and psychologically superior human being and how this task paralleled efforts to create a superior society To these ends it addresses a number of questions What are the intellectual roots of the new man concept How was this idealistic and utopian goal linked to specific political and economic programs How do the policies of these particular regimes based as they are on universal communist ideology reflect national and cultural traditions Cheng begins by exploring the origins of the idea of human perfectibility during the Enlightenment His discussion moves to other European intellectual movements and then to the creation of the Soviet Man the first communist new man in world history Subsequent chapters examine China s experiment with human nature starting with the nationalistic debate about a new national character at the turn of the twentieth century and Cuban perceptions of the new man and his role in propelling the revolution from a nationalist to a socialist and finally a communist movement The last chapter considers the global influence of the Soviet Chinese and Cuban experiments Creating the New Man contributes greatly to our understanding of how three very different countries and their leaders carried out problematic and controversial visions and programs It will be of special interest to students and scholars of world history and intellectual social and revolutionary history and also development studies and philosophy

The Creole Elite and the Rise of Angolan Protonationalism Jacopo Corrado, 2008 This book is about Angolan literature and culture It investigates a segment of Angolan history and literature with which even Portuguese speaking readers are generally not familiar Its main purpose is to define the features and the literary production of the so called creole elite as well as its contribution to the early manifestations of dissatisfaction towards colonial rule patent during a period of renewed Portuguese commitment to its African colonies but also of unrealised ambitions economic crisis and socio political upheaval in Angola and in Portugal itself Nineteenth century Angolan society was characterised by the presence of a semi urbanised commercial and administrative elite of Portuguese speaking creole families white black some of mixed race some Catholic and others Protestant some old established and others cosmopolitan who were based in the main coastal towns As well as their wealth derived from the functions performed in the colonial administrative commercial and customs apparatus their European influenced culture and habits clearly distinguished them from the broad native population of black peasants and farm workers In order to expand its control over the region Portugal desperately needed the support of this kind of non coloniser urban elite which was also used as an assimilating force or better as a source of dissemination of a relevant model of social behaviour Thus until the 1850s great creole merchants and inland chiefs dealt in captive slaves bound for export to Brazil via Cape Verde and Sao Tome the tribal aristocracy and the creole bourgeoisie thrived on the profits of overseas trade and lived in style consuming imported alcoholic beverages and wearing European clothes After the abolition however their social and economic position was eroded by an influx of petty merchants and bureaucrats from Portugal who wished to grasp the commercial and employment opportunities created by a new and modern colonial order anxious to keep up with other European colonial powers engaged in the partition of the African continent This book thus considers the first intellectuals the early printed publications in the country and the pioneers of Angolan literature who felt the need to raise their roots to higher dignity Thus they wrote grammar dictionaries poetry fiction and of course incendiary articles denouncing exploitation racism and the different treatment afforded by the colonial authorities to Portuguese expatriates and natives
