Demographic	Conditional mean of y given the values of the covariates	Y-axis intercept of the conditional (or the observed) of the demographic covariates
Example	$y = 10 + 0.5x$	$y = 10$
without the x term?	Conditional mean of y given the values of the x term	Intercept of the conditional (or the observed) of the x term
without the x term?	Unconditional mean of y given the values of the x term	Intercept of the unconditional regression

These data were used to fit the sigmoidal dose-response model, subject by group, with gender held as the covariate in the fitting of the logistic model.

- Operate with the most comprehensive representation of the population, which is complete, fit, stable, and useful to other researchers (they represent the population)
- "Represent" the population by making randomizations, sampling methods, conducting surveys, and using newly-developing statistics
- Represent the individual's personal information
- Represent the "population's interests" and the response to various factors

School Trouble Deborah Youdell, 2010-11-01 What is the trouble with schools and why should we want to make school trouble Schooling is implicated in the making of educational and social exclusions and inequalities as well as the making of particular sorts of students and teachers For this reason schools are important sites of counter or radical politics In this book Deborah Youdell brings together theories of counter politics and radical traditions in education to make sense of the politics of daily life inside schools and explores a range of resources for thinking about and enacting political practices that make school trouble The book offers a solid introduction to the much debated issues of intersectionality and the limits of identity politics and the relationship between schooling and the wider policy and political context It pieces together a series of tools and tactics that might destabilize educational inequalities by unsettling the knowledges meanings practices subjectivities and feelings that are normalized and privileged in the business as usual of school life Engaging with curriculum materials teachers lesson plans and accounts of their pedagogy and ethnographic observations of school practices the book investigates a range of empirical examples of critical action in school from overt political action pursued by educators to day to day pedagogic encounters between teachers and students The book draws on the work of Michel Foucault Judith Butler Ernesto Laclau and Chantal Mouffe and Gilles Deleuze and Felix Guattari to make sense of these practices and identify the political possibilities for educators who refuse to accept the everyday injustices and wide reaching social inequalities that face us School Trouble appears at a moment of political and economic flux and uncertainty and when the policy moves that have promoted markets and private sector involvement in education around the globe have been subject to intense scrutiny and critique Against this backdrop renewed attention is being paid to the questions of how politics might be rejuvenated how societies might be made fair and what role education might have in pursuing this This book makes an important intervention into this terrain By exploring a politics of discourse an anti identity politics a politics of feeling and a politics of becoming it shows how the education assemblage can be unsettled and education can be re imagined The book will be of interest to advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students and scholars in the fields of education sociology cultural studies and social and political science as well as to critical educators looking for new tools for thinking about their practice
