Responses to Victimizations and Belief in a Just World Leo Montada, Melvin J. Lerner, 2013-03-09 The preparation of this volume began with a conference held at Trier University approximately thirty years after the publication of the first Belief in a Just World BJW manuscript The location of the conference was especially appropriate given the continued interest that the Trier faculty and students had for BJW research and theory As several chapters in this volume document their research together with the other contributors to this volume have added to the current sophistication and status of the BJW construct In the 1960s and 1970s Melvin Lerner together with his students and colleagues developed his justice motive theory The theory of Belief in a Just World BJW was part of that effort BJW theory meanwhile in its thirties has become very influential in social and behavioral sciences As with every widely applied concept and theory there is a natural development history that involves transformations differentiation of facets and efforts to identify further theoretical relationships And of course that growth process will not end unless the theory ceases to develop In this volume this growth is reconstructed along Furnham's stage model for the development of scientific concepts The main part of the book is devoted to current trends in theory and research

Non-State Actor Dynamics in International Law Cedric Ryngaert, 2016-05-06 Non state actors have always been treated with ambivalence in the works of international law While their empirical existence is widely acknowledged and their impact and influence uncontested non state actors are still not in the centre of international legal research The idea that non state actors are not law makers however stands in sharp contrast with the growing notion of non state actors as law takers This book examines the position of non state actors in international law as law makers and law takers and questions whether these different positions can or should be separated from each other Each contribution reveals both the political and normative aspects of the question as well as the positivistic possibilities and constraints to accommodate non state actors as law takers and law makers in the contemporary international legal system Altogether each expert reveals that the position of non state actors in international law is not a fixed one but changes with the functional and theoretical perspectives of the observer Non State Actor Dynamics in International Law is a welcomed addition to an under researched field of legal study An indispensable read to scholars and policy makers wishing to gain new insights into general discourse on non state actors in international law and the process of
