Cognitive Psychodynamics as an Integrative Framework in Counselling Psychology and Psychotherapy Tony Ward, Arnaud Plagnol, 2019-08-24 This book proposes a novel method of combining the current approaches to counselling and psychotherapy into one coherent framework The authors argue that the cognitive behavioural tradition largely focused on thought patterns and the psychodynamic approach centred on the client s experience and relationships can be successfully integrated with insights from cognitive neuroscience to form a fruitful synthesis In doing so they provide a perspective that will enable practitioners to more fully appreciate each client s unique inner world based on their individual history and environment The authors point towards the brain s innate ability to understand and learn from experience so as to direct the growth of that inner world This book elaborates a method of tapping into this innate growth potential so as to help clients move forward when they have become trapped in non productive patterns or mental stalemates It will provide fresh insights and a valuable resource for counselling psychologists counsellors and psychotherapists as well as for academics and students in these fields

Psychoanalytically Informed Play Therapy Jason L. Steadman, 2024-03-29 Psychoanalytically Informed Play Therapy Fantasy Exposure Life Narrative Therapy is a structured manual for the execution of FELT an integrative play therapy that marries the analytic relational and psychodynamic aspects of traditional Play Therapy with the scientific rigor and replicability standards of clinical empiricism Jason Steadman's FELT model creates a structured empirically derived means of monitoring children's play using psychoanalytic methods Steadman's method proposes the usage of story stems to structure play to address critical needs in children's psychological development In FELT Steadman teaches readers how to identify problematic play themes and how to respond therapeutically to drive play and general child development toward healthy directions Steadman uses anxiety as the primary example of psychological distress for FELT but also shows how the method can be applied to many other pathologies such as depression and trauma Steadman explains 11 core FELT themes which are then further condensed to three major clinical targets identified in the play of clinically anxious children Each of these is described in detail in the book and therapists are shown not only how to reliably identify themes but how to focus their interventions to move children toward major play based targets Integrating psychoanalytic theory with an emphasis on Object Relations Steadman's FELT program highlights the importance of the self in healthy child development and how play based psychotherapy can be used to help children build stronger healthier selves that can face a wide variety of psychological issues across their lifespan Including comprehensive theoretical underpinnings and thorough clinical examples of FELT at work this volume will allow therapists clinicians and mental health workers to understand childhood play in an empirically based manner and show them how to integrate the key tenets of FELT into their own work to better aid children experiencing anxiety and other mental health concerns Personalizing Treatment In IBD: Hype or Reality In 2020? Fernando Gomollón, Edouard Louis, 2021-07-05

Psychotherapy as a Developmental Process Michael Basseches, Michael F. Mascolo, 2009-08-05 For all those engaged in psychotherapy practice regardless of modality or approach the goal of this book is to provide a framework and method for thinking about their work that allows for critical reflection on their own successes and disappointments and on the similarities and differences among their own and other practitioners work with different clients The authors use a novel common factors approach based on the idea that some form of development is the outcome of all effective psychotherapy despite other differences that may exist While most existing psychotherapy research focuses on treatment outcomes primarily in terms of symptom reduction this book offers an alternative research approach that systematically tracks the psychotherapy process itself and describes each case's unique developmental outcome In particular Basseches Mascolo focus on the questions of what kinds of therapeutic resources therapists are offering to their clients and whether and how clients are able to make use of these resources in the service of their own development The goal is to provide a descriptive framework that can be used to appreciate the highly varied ways in which particular therapists tailor their work to unique clients developmental needs while at the same time offering a prescription of a more rigorous method for recognizing and correcting the problem when a particular therapist's way of working is not serving the client well Ideally this type of process focused research will complement existing outcome research and be more likely than further symptom reduction studies to result in the improvement of overall psychotherapy success rates

Immune Cell Therapy Approaches Targeting Tumor Microenvironment Jaya Lakshmi Thangaraj, Luigi Cari, Suresh Kalathil, Antoine Toubert, 2025-06-12 Immune cell therapy has emerged as a ground breaking approach in the field of cancer treatment focusing on harnessing the power of the body s immune system to combat tumors One promising avenue within this realm is the development of immune cell therapies targeting the tumor microenvironment TME The TME encompasses the complex network of cells blood vessels and signalling molecules that surround a tumor influencing its growth and interaction with the immune system One notable strategy in immune cell therapy is the use of chimeric antigen receptor expressing T cells CAR T cells CAR NK cells dendritic cells and macrophages which are directly engineered to recognize and attack cancer cells within the TME By deploying these engineered immune cells researchers aim to enhance the immune system s ability to infiltrate the TME and eradicate malignant cells Another approach involves utilizing tumor infiltrating lymphocytes TILs which are naturally occurring immune cells found within the tumor Researchers extract and expand these TILs outside the body before reinfusing them back into the patient bolstering the immune response against the tumor This method capitalizes on the inherent specificity of TILs for cancer cells while amplifying their numbers for a more robust and targeted attack In addition to cell based therapies ongoing research focuses on developing immunomodulatory drugs designed to manipulate the TME and create an environment hostile to tumor survival. These drugs aim to modulate various components of the TME such as immune checkpoint inhibitors that release the brakes on immune responses enabling a more potent antitumor effect. The ultimate goal of immune cell therapy targeting the TME is to establish a dynamic and sustained immune response against cancer fostering long term remission and potentially even cures. As research progresses the integration of multiple approaches and the refinement of existing strategies hold promise for revolutionizing cancer treatment and providing new hope for patients facing insurmountable challenges. Immune cell therapy has emerged as a revolutionary approach in cancer treatment with a focus on manipulating the tumor microenvironment (TME) to enhance anti tumor immune responses. The TME is a complex milieu of cells including immune cells, stromal cells and blood vessels that influences tumor growth and metastasis. Immunotherapies leverage the body's own immune system to target and eliminate cancer cells offering a promising alternative to traditional treatments. Adoptive cell therapy (ACT) involves isolating and genetically modifying immune cells such as T cells, NK cells, dendritic cells and macrophages to express specific receptors that recognize and attack cancer cells within the TME. Additionally, immune checkpoint inhibitors aim to unleash the immune system by blocking inhibitory signals that tumors exploit to evade detection. These innovative approaches represent a paradigm shift in cancer therapy harnessing the power of the immune system to reprogram the TME and combat cancer more effectively. Currently, a major challenge in developing immune cell therapies targeting the tumor microenvironment lies in the complexity and heterogeneity of the tumor itself. Tumors create an immunosuppressive microenvironment hindering the effectiveness of immune cells. Moreover, achieving sustained immune cell persistence within the hostile tumor milieu remains a critical concern. Researchers are actively addressing these challenges through innovative strategies such as enhancing immune cell homing and persistence, refining cell engineering techniques and deciphering the intricate interactions within the tumor microenvironment. Furthermore, advancements in understanding the intricate interactions within the tumor microenvironment may lead to the development of novel strategies to overcome immunosuppression and improve the overall efficacy of immune cell therapies in treating various types of cancer. This research topic collection aims to investigate the potential of immune cell based adoptive transfer approaches targeting the tumor microenvironment, a crucial aspect of cancer progression. The collection's scope encompasses a comprehensive exploration of various immune cell types, their interactions within the tumor microenvironment and their impact on tumor growth and metastasis, and as potential adoptive cell therapy. Authors are invited to delve into the latest advancements in immunotherapy seeking to understand how immune cells can be harnessed to modulate the complex dynamics of the tumor microenvironment effectively. The aim of this research topic is therefore to contribute valuable insights that can inform the development of innovative therapeutic strategies ultimately advancing the field of cancer treatment. By elucidating the intricate interplay between immune cells and the tumor microenvironment, this research topic strives to pave the way for more targeted and immune cell based therapeutic approaches in cancer.
