

Thinking critically with psychological science study guide

Hindsight bias is the tendency to believe, that after learning an outcome, that one would have foreseen it.

- Also known as the "I knew it all along" phenomenon

A theory is an explanation using an integrated set of principles that organizes observations and predicts behaviors or events.

Hypothesis is a testable prediction, often implied by a theory.

Operational definition a carefully worded statement of the exact procedures (operations) used in a research study. For example, human intelligence may be operationally defined as what an intelligence test measures.

Replication is repeating the essence of a research study, usually with different participants in different situations, to see whether the basic finding can be reproduced.

Professional psychologists draw conclusion though more objectively and systematically through

- Case study (in depth analyses of individuals or groups)
- Naturalistic observations (recording the natural behavior of many individuals)
- Surveys and interviews (asking people questions)

Case study a descriptive technique in which one individual or group is studied in the hope of revealing universal principles

Naturalistic observation is a descriptive technique of observing and recording behavior in naturally occurring situations without trying to manipulate and control the situation.

a survey is a descriptive technique for obtaining the self reported attitudes or behaviors of a particular group, usually by questioning a representative, a random sample of the group.

Random sample is a sample that fairly represents a population because each member has an equal chance of inclusion.

A representative sample is a group or set chosen from a larger statistical population according to specified characteristic

Population is all those in a group being studied from which samples may be drawn.

Correlation is a measure of the extent to which two factors vary together, and thus of how well either factor predicts the other.
