author's own experience working in a primary health care setting focused on the challenges faced by patients. This book will add to the body of knowledge and management of health care users as this book offers practical recommendations that are tailor-made for specific health care users to be implemented by primary health care providers and settings. Furthermore, the country is faced with a burden of communicable and non-communicable diseases. New strategies are required to address the ever-changing disease pattern and the rapidly growing populations.

Handbook of Research on Shifting Paradigms of Disabilities in the Schooling System Maapola-Thobejane, Hlabathi Rebecca, Maguvhe, Mbulaheni Obert, 2023-10-16

Children living with disabilities face hardships of many kinds that make it impossible for them to access quality education in the same way as their peers in the schooling system. All children are entitled to quality education and a supportive school environment that allows them to develop to their full potential irrespective of their disabilities. However, different factors make it difficult for many learners who live with disabilities to access, participate and succeed in the schooling system. The Handbook of Research on Shifting Paradigms of Disabilities in the Schooling System focuses on the global trends in education that require the total eradication of every form of impediment in the process of accessing quality education and lifelong learning for people living with disabilities. Rooted in the philosophy of equal rights, human dignity and social justice, access to quality education for all has led to the current drive for inclusive education. Covering topics such as inclusive schooling systems, visual impairments and emotional disabilities, this major reference work is an essential resource for students and faculty of higher education, administrators of both K-12 and higher education, government officials, policymakers, non-profit organizations, researchers and academicians.

Pentecost, 2024-01-12

The first one thousand days of human life or the period between conception and age two is one of the most pivotal periods of human development. Optimizing nutrition during this time not only prevents childhood malnutrition but also determines future health and potential. The Politics of Potential examines early life interventions in the first one thousand days of life in South Africa, drawing on fieldwork from international conferences, government offices, health care facilities and the everyday lives of fifteen women and their families in Cape Town. Michelle Pentecost explores various aspects of a politics of potential, a term that underlines the first one thousand days concept and its effects on clinical care and the lives of childbearing women in South Africa. Why was the First One Thousand Days project so readily adopted by South Africa and many other countries? Pentecost not only explores this question but also discusses the science of intergenerational transmissions of health, disease and human capital and how this constitutes new forms of intergenerational responsibility. The women who are the target of first one thousand days interventions are cast as both vulnerable and responsible for the health of future generations, such that despite its history, intergenerational responsibility in South Africa remains entrenched.

in powerfully gendered and racialized ways Transforming Teacher Preparation Through Identity, Development, and Effective Technologies Sargent, Denise LaVoie, Murphy, Kristin M., 2024-08-09 In the landscape of global education there is a dire shortage of teachers exacerbated by declining enrollment rates and a mass exodus of educators particularly in urban settings UNESCO's revelation that millions of teachers are needed by 2030 underscores the critical gaps in our ability to provide quality education As the education sector grapples with these challenges Transforming Teacher Preparation Through Identity Development and Effective Technologies offers valuable solutions This compilation responds to the pressing need for a paradigm shift in teacher preparation offering insights recommendations and diverse perspectives from experts worldwide to address the current crisis and shape the future of education Teacher shortages and diminishing enrollment rates coupled with the departure of educators pose a significant threat to the quality of education globally Urban areas in particular witness a disproportionate exodus of educators creating disparities that impact the most vulnerable students The COVID 19 pandemic has further emphasized the need for innovative technology driven solutions in teacher preparation As schools deal with these issues the imperative is to not only reflect on the current state of teacher preparation but also to set forth recommendations that will transform the field ensuring a robust and resilient education system for the years to come
