Sizonqoba! Outliving AIDS in Southern Africa Busani Ngcaweni, 2017-04-11 The aim of this book is to better understand the phenomenon of HIV in a country that has faced the fullest might of the disease and yet after first faltering has made more progress than any other country in the world in its response to HIV. It aims to reflect the complexity of this narrative and the range of widely differing insights by featuring what is likely the largest number of contributors in a single publication on the subject in South Africa as well as a full spectrum of specialised areas ranging from high end science to personal reflections.

Choice and conscience: Lessons from South Africa for a global debate Satang Nabaneh, 2023-11-08 Choice and Conscience offers a fresh and insightful perspective on the highly debated issue of conscientious objection in abortion care. Satang Nabaneh's socio-legal approach which draws on both traditional legal scholarship and African feminist intellectual traditions provides a nuanced understanding of how legal norms construct and maintain power relations. By focusing on the experiences of nurses in South Africa, Nabaneh explores the complexities of conscience, discretionary power and socio-cultural and political factors that influence nurses' decisions about whether or not to conscientiously object. In the wake of the recent rollback of abortion rights in the United States and the trend towards liberalisation within the African region, Nabaneh provides an important African perspective on how the international human rights framework should strike a contextual balance between freedom of conscience and ensuring access to abortion. Choice and Conscience will interest lawyers, activists, policymakers, scholars and students exploring the dynamic intersections of law, healthcare and gender politics. Choice and Conscience stands as a significant and valuable addition to the ongoing global scholarship on this critical issue. It underscores the vital concept that intersectionality should occupy a central place in our examination of how various local contexts give rise to layered forms of privilege and disadvantage.

Dr Tlaleng Mofokeng UN Special Rapporteur on the right to health Nabaneh's study of law in action zeroes in on South African nurses' gatekeepers who often object to the practice for reasons of conscience. Her interviews of these nurses and her analysis complicate our understanding of challenges to abortion access, providing lessons applicable not only to South Africa and other African countries but everywhere where there is a gap between formal law and its application.

Mindy Jane Roseman JD PhD Yale Law School Written from an African feminist perspective, this book offers fresh insights into our understanding of the intersection between politics mobilisation of discretionary power and the exercise of conscientious objection to abortion by mid level providers Charles Ngwenya Professor of Law Centre for Human Rights University of Pretoria This book offers powerful insights about how informal and background norms in health systems function constrain or enable reproductive justice Focusing on conscientious objection to abortion by nurses including midwives in South Africa Nabaneh sketches the importance of a feminist analysis that is situated in Africans lived realities Alicia Ely Yamin Harvard University

Geographies of Health and Development Rachel Bezner Kerr, Isaac Luginaah, 2016-03-03 The geographies of health and development is an emerging sub discipline tying in with many of the conceptual theoretical and practical components of other disciplines working in health health care economics and international development Spatially and theoretically grounded in geography this collection offers a fresh perspective on the dialectic relationships between health and development Health problems in a developing context take on much higher rates of prevalence as a result of the varied cultural structural and economic vulnerabilities of the people they impact This book begins by exploring some of the circumstances surrounding the distinctive health inequities currently facing many developing countries including malaria maternal mortality and HIV AIDS This is followed by a discussion of how matters of physical access and human resource issues and perhaps most importantly the challenges of financing together shape the access and utilization of health care Examining how the environment interacts to influence the health of the people that live there the next section includes discussion around challenges of food in security and the importance of clean and uncontaminated water for health Finally the book explores the influence of globalization on health specifically within the urban environment against the backdrop of global health policy Southern Africa Report ,2007

Popular Politics and Resistance Movements in South Africa William Beinart, Marcelle C. Dawson, 2010-12-01 An examination of post apartheid politics This volume explores some of the key features of popular politics and resistance before and after 1994 It looks at continuities and changes in the forms of struggle and ideologies involved as well as the significance of post apartheid grassroots politics Is this a new form of politics or does it stand as a direct descendent of the insurrectionary impulses of the late apartheid era Posing questions about continuity and change before and after 1994 raises key issues concerning the nature of power and poverty in the country Contributors suggest that expressions of popular politics are deeply set within South African political culture and still have the capacity to influence political outcomes The introduction by William Beinart links the papers together places them in context of recent literature on popular politics and history from below and summarises their main findings supporting the argument that popular politics outside of the party system remain significant in South Africa and help influence national politics The roots of this collection lie in post graduate student research conducted at the University of Oxford in the early twenty first century

State of Transition Clive Harber, 2001-01-01 The main purpose of this book is to provide a concise overview of educational transition to document discuss and analyse key changes and continuities in South African education

since the end of apartheid What makes this period particularly fascinating for educationalists is that the legacy of apartheid and the years of international isolation meant that educational reform had to be fundamental and wide ranging if South Africa was to become a modern democratic state participating in the global political economy of the twenty first century The result was that in the final five years of the twentieth century South Africa became something of a laboratory or crucible for educational innovation From 1948 to the early 1990s South African government was based on an institutionalised system of racial separation and inequality formally known as apartheid A white minority dominated a black majority in a context of stark social political and economic differentiation While the apartheid state used force to maintain this system formal education was also used to try to make the basic tenets of apartheid normal and acceptable in the minds of South Africans From the apartheid government's point of view the role of education was to help to perpetuate and reproduce a racist system and to encourage obedience and conformity to that system It is not therefore surprising that in the 1970s and 1980s education also became a key site in the struggle against apartheid or that educational reform was high on the agenda of the first democratically elected government after April 1994 However while the direction of educational reform has inevitably been strongly influenced by the nature and history of the anti apartheid struggle inside South Africa the global political and economic context has also played its part in shaping educational debate and policy outside South Africa Clive Harber's book recognises that there is a difference between planned reform and the actual nature of educational change on the ground and tries where possible to set reform in the contextual realities of South African education as they presently exist It aims to understand the difficulties and ambiguities of transition as well as the overt aims and goals as enshrined in policy documents and legislation

Ettman, Muhammad H. Zaman, 2022-11-25 A new introduction to a timeless dynamic how the movement of humans affects health everywhere

International migrants compose more than three percent of the world's population and internal migrants those migrating within countries are more than triple that number. Population migration has long been and remains today one of the central demographic shifts shaping the world around us. The world's history and its health is shaped and colored by stories of migration patterns, the policies and political events that drive these movements, and narratives of individual migrants. Migration and Health offers the most expansive framework to date for understanding and reckoning with human migration's implications for public health and its determinants. It interrogates this complex relationship by considering not only the welfare of migrants but also that of the source, destination, and ensuing generation populations. The result is an elevated interdisciplinary resource for understanding what is known and the considerable territory of what is not known at an intersection that promises to grow in importance and influence as the century unfolds. Spear Paul S.
