News Agencies from Pigeon to Internet K. M. Shrivastava,2007 Deals with a very important business in global communication of news the news agencies The first news agencies started their business when the fastest technology was a combination of telegraph and carrier pigeon They have survived several technological developments since then and have used these technologies for further diversification of services and revenues. The Internet, some thought will make the news agencies extinct like dinosaurs. But well-run news agencies found a new opportunity in this threat. Though there have been some corporate biographies of news agencies, there has not been any comprehensive analytical work in the past 25 years on this business. This book is an attempt to fill this void in the global literature on journalism, media studies, international communication, and business management studies. Besides the students of these academic disciplines, diplomats, policymakers, and all types of communication professionals will find this book useful. It will also be a good read for lay persons who unconsciously consume the products of news agencies through all types of media, from newspapers to mobile phones.

The Known World of Broadcast News Stanley Baran, 2003-09-02. Radio and television news are expanding everywhere, often at the expense of print media. Developments in global communications, in theory at least, have made the world smaller. An event anywhere can theoretically be reported anywhere else on radio within minutes, on television within hours. But theory and practice are often far apart. Broadcast News has become a global business, almost like the music industry, with its own Top 10 and an inevitable streamlining of taste. A few major organisations control the newsflow. Syndicators guarantee that more and more of us get to see or hear the same stories. This is typified by the growth of independent or local news stations and cable suppliers competing mercilessly with the traditional giants of the news airwaves: the US Networks, the BBC, and other Public Service Broadcasters etc. But does this development satisfy the democratic demands of enlightened society and of informed citizens? This book presents a catalogue of worries but also some rays of hope. It looks in detail at news broadcasters on both sides of the Atlantic. It also covers the international broadcasting scene as well as third-world countries and recent developments in Glasnost's USSR. A major empirical study of what we get from broadcast news, taking the case of the USA, Britain, and Sweden, is also presented. Models useful for understanding both
