True Confessions John Gregory Dunne, 2006 When an unidentified murder victim found cut in two is nicknamed The Virgin Tramp ambitious Monsignor Desmond Spellacy of the Los Angeles archdiocese and homicide detective Tom Spellacy are among those whose lives are affected

True Confessions John Gregory Dunne, 2009-04-29 In 1940s Los Angeles an unidentified murder victim is found bisected in a shadowy lot A catchy nickname is given her in jest The Virgin Tramp and suddenly a nice little homicide that would have drifted off the front pages in a couple of days becomes a storm center Two brothers Tom and Des Spellacy are at the heart of this powerful novel of Irish Catholic life in Southern California just after World War II Played in the film version by Robert Duvall and Robert De Niro respectively Tom is a homicide detective and Des is a priest on the rise within the Church The murder investigation provides the background against which are played the ever changing loyalties of the two brothers Theirs is a world of favors and fixes power and promises inhabited by priests and pimps cops and contractors boxers and jockeys and lesbian fight promoters and lawyers who know how to put the fix in A fast paced and often hilarious classic of contemporary fiction True Confessions is about a crime that has no solutions only victims More important it is about the complex relationship between Tom and Des Spellacy each tainted with the guilt and hostility that separate brothers

The Transatlantic Gothic Novel and the Law, 1790-1860 Bridget M. Marshall, 2016-02-17 Tracing the use of legal themes in the gothic novel Bridget M Marshall shows these devices reflect an outpouring of anxiety about the nature of justice On both sides of the Atlantic novelists like William Godwin Mary Shelley Charles Brockden Brown and Hannah Crafts question the foundations of the Anglo American justice system through their portrayals of criminal and judicial procedures and their use of found documents and legal forms as key plot devices As gothic villains from Walpole s Manfred to Godwin s Tyrrell to Stoker s Dracula manipulate the law and legal system to expand their power readers are confronted with a legal system that is not merely ineffective at stopping villains but actually enables them to inflict ever greater harm on their victims By invoking actual laws like the Black Act in England or the Fugitive Slave Act in America gothic novels connect the fantastic horrors that constitute their primary appeal with much more shocking examples of terror and injustice Finally the gothic novel s preoccupation with injustice is just one element of many that connects the genre to slave narratives and to the horrors of American slavery

This study is concerned with how readers are positioned to interpret the past in historical fiction for children and young adults Looking at literature published within the last thirty to forty years Wilson identifies and explores a prevalent trend for re-visioning and rewriting the past according to modern social and political ideological assumptions Fiction within this genre while concerned with the past at the level of content is additionally concerned with present views of that historical past because of the future to which it is moving Specific areas of discussion include the identification of a new sub genre Living history fiction stories of Joan of Arc historical fiction featuring agentic females the very popular Scholastic Press historical journal series fictions of war and historical fiction featuring multicultural discourses Wilson observes specific traits in historical fiction written for children most notably how the notion of positive progress into the future is nuanced differently in this literature in which the concept of progress from the past is inextricably linked to the protagonist's potential for agency and the realization of subjectivity. The genre consistently manifests a concern with identity construction that in turn informs and influences how a metanarrative of positive progress is played out. This book engages in a discussion of the functionality of the past within the genre and offers an interpretative frame for the sifting out of the present from the past in historical fiction for young readers.

Approaches to the African Novel Charles E.

Nnolim, 2010. This Third Edition of Approaches to the African Novel is a child of necessity. Because of the unfortunate death of the publisher of Saros International who issued the First Edition and high demand, this third enlarged edition has become imperative. Three new essays, all previously published, are added: two expectedly on Achebe, the father of the African novel, and one on Mongp Beti's Mission to Kala, which was partially anthologised in Contemporary Literary Criticism Volume 27, 1984. Achebe's Things Fall Apart, as an Igbo national epic, has evoked a spate of reactions from critics of African literature, especially the troika Chinweizu et al. in Toward the Decolonization of African Literature. It was also anthologised in Modern Black Literature, edited by S. Okechukwu, 1971. The essay on Arrow of God, whose structure and meaning has been largely avoided by other critics, is included here for further airing. For gender balance, as the previous volume contained no essays on women writers, an essay on Flora Nwapa has been added. Since the novels discussed in this volume exclusively are on the African literature south of the Sahara, the last essay on Peter Abrahams comes in to round out this collection of essays with a study of a South African writer for geographical balance.
