

Changes to ISO/TS 16949 Rules 4th Edition What They Mean for Your Organization

The Rules for Achieving and Maintaining IATF Recognition 4th Edition were released on October 1, 2013 and requires full implementation by April 1, 2014. This article highlights some of the most significant changes that affect registrants within the scheme. NSF-ISR does wish to qualify that this summary is being provided to assist organizations with understanding some of the changes, but organizations should obtain the official document from the Automotive Industry Action Group (AIAG) and fully read it to understand the entire impact.

At the time of release, the IATF also published Certification Body Communiqué #2013-006 (available from the IATF website) which describes the removal of manufacturing site extensions from the ISO/TS 16949 certification scheme. Existing site extensions will need to transition into single certified sites between April 1, 2014 and April 1, 2015 according to the process described in the memo.

In summary, it appears the changes to the Rules align with the IATF strategy of "raising the bar" as coverage and detail of audits appear to have increased from a requirement perspective and the consequences for not performing to expectation have been made more severe. The interpretation of these requirements is subject to change as future meetings are planned with IATF members to better understand intent and application. The remainder of this article discusses selected clauses and changes to the requirements and scheme.

Clause 1.0 Eligibility Change Summary

Fabless sites are not eligible for TS certification. Fabless is defined as an organization which outsources all fabrication activity. Sites manufacturing only aftermarket parts are not eligible for TS certification.

2.9 Appeals and complaints Change Summary

The appeals process shall not impact timings related to nonconformity management (NC) or the certificate decertification process.

3.1 Certification agreement with client Change Summary

The certification body (CB) shall have a legally enforceable agreement with the client which includes that consultants to the client cannot be physically present at the client's site during audits or participate in audits in any way. The audit team shall be knowledgeable in the legally enforceable agreement with the client.

3.2 Notice of changes by a client Change Summary

Client failure to inform the CB of changes is considered a breach of the legally enforceable agreement and may result in certificate withdrawal.
