Managing African Conflicts Louis Du Plessis,Michael Hough,2000 In the last years of the twentieth century military interventions by states in the conflicts occurring in other countries dominated television news on Africa Military units from Nigeria or Gambia Ghana or Guinea were patrolling the streets of Monrovia the capital of Liberia Armoured vehicles from South Africa and Botswana lumbered up and down the main streets of Lesotho s capital Maseru Soldiers from Zimbabwe and Angola assisted those from the Democratic Republic of Congo DRC to defend the Congolese capital against rebel insurgents supported by Ugandan Rwandan and Burundian forces Those who observed the camouflaged uniforms and wished to understand something more of these events were inevitably puzzled by many questions Some of these questions were Why are the armed forces of so many African states intervening in the domestic affairs of their neighbours What are these armed forces actually doing on foreign soil Why are so many African conflicts continuing from year to year thereby inevitably inviting and attracting intervention And finally what kinds of theoretical and legal conceptual frameworks will help observers understand the nature of such military interventions transition and its relationship to global dynamics have meant that many of the issues confronting planners in other parts of the world are echoed here. Issues of governance, integration, market competitiveness, sustainability, democracy, and values are significant, and the particular nature of the South African experience lends new insights to thinking on these questions, exploring the possibilities of achievement in the planning field.

Sugar Man Craig Bartholomew Strydom, Stephen 'Sugar' Segerman, 2016-06-30. The true story behind the Academy award winning documentary Searching for Sugar Man. In the summer of 1972, during a compulsory stint in the South African military, Stephen Sugar Segerman heard the music that would forever change his life. A decade later, on yet another military base, Craig Bartholomew Strydom heard the same music. It would have a profound effect. Who was this folk singer who resonated with South Africa's youth? No one could say. All that anyone knew was his name, Rodriguez, and the fact that he had killed himself on stage after reading his own epitaph. After many years of searching in a pre-internet age, Strydom, with support from Segerman, found the musician not dead but alive and living in seclusion in Detroit. Even more remarkable was the fact that Rodriguez, no longer working as a musician and struggling to eke out a blue-collar existence, had no idea that he had been famous for over 25 years in a remote part of the world.
