

HOW TO WRITE A PERFECT ESSAY OUTLINE

What Is An Essay Outline?

- In the most simple terms an essay outline is the plan for your essay. In it, you will be able to give your essay a structure as well as detail any points which must be included in the final written piece of work. Your essay outline will give you the opportunity to note down what information is going to be presented in each paragraph, allowing you to write the essay freely and easily without having to stop to look up further information.
- A good essay outline will enable the author to fully complete their essay from the notes within the outline. Some points that you might include are:
 - Your main point or argument on what the essay is about.
 - Your thoughts and ideas which should be included.
 - The structure of the essay.
 - A plan of what information will be included where.

As a rule of thumb, most essays are made up from five paragraphs, although there is room for movement on this. But for the purposes of this article, we will assume that you are writing a five paragraph essay. There are usually three main parts to an essay, these are the introduction, the body (which is made up from three paragraphs) and finally the conclusion.

Introduction

- Introduction of the subject
- Thesis statement

Body 1st Paragraph

- Plan a sentence with an argument for your thesis statement
- Give evidence, data and facts to back up your argument.
- Refer back to your thesis and show how the information you have provided relates to it.

Body 2nd Paragraph

- Plan a second argument sentence relating to your thesis statement.
- Provide more evidence or data to back up this argument.
- Once again, refer back to your thesis statement to back it up.

Body 3rd Paragraph

- Create a final argument sentence surrounding your thesis statement
- Give evidence or data to back up your argument
- Relate this back to your thesis statement

Conclusion

- Provide a summary of the main argument points
- Include your thesis statement once again
- Create a call to action, this is something that you ask your reader to do once they have finished the essay.

Why Yoga Is The Perfect Work out

INTRODUCTION

Thesis statement: Yoga is the best form of exercise

BODY 1ST PARAGRAPH

Topic Sentence: Yoga is ideal for those with lower fitness levels

- Yoga can help build muscles in a slow way
- It can be done at varying levels

BODY 2ND PARAGRAPH

Topic sentence: Yoga is good for the mind

- Taking part in yoga can help you to relax
- Yoga focuses on breathing techniques which are proven to reduce stress
- Evidence to back up the previous fact.

CONCLUSION

Yoga is an excellent way of working out and can have benefits such as...

- Before you begin, you should ensure that you have thoroughly read the essay question or prompt and have understood what is being asked of you.
- You should then work out the type of essay you will need to write as well as what arguments should be included and how long the essay should be.
- It is important to remember to consider the purpose of the essay-is it to entertain, persuade or give information?
- Next it is important to think about the reader of the essay, what type of person is reading the work and what might they expect? How can you most appeal to your audience?
- It is now time to come up with your thesis statement. This should be something which grabs the attention of the reader and gets them emotionally involved right from the start.
- Decide on whether you will use an alphanumeric format or a decimal format-usually an essay outline uses an alphanumeric structure but either is fine depending on which one you feel works best for you.
