the book stresses practical applications in a concise and straightforward manner without complex treatment of theoretical concepts. All the chapters in the 4th edition have been updated to include new materials, eliminate unnecessary outdated materials, and include more non-US materials. Each chapter contains the following four new items: an opening mini case, a global finance in practice, a list of key terms at the end of each chapter, and a closing mini case. The GCF4 is suitable for appropriate courses no matter where in the world it is taught because it does not adopt any specific national viewpoint. Moreover, it is self-contained and it combines theory and applications. The earlier editions of the GCF4 have been adopted by many colleges, universities, and management development programs worldwide, particularly because the book stresses practical applications in a user-friendly format. Supplementary materials are available to instructors who adopt this textbook. These include:

- The Capital Asset Pricing Model in the 21st Century* Haim Levy, 2011-10-30. The Capital Asset Pricing Model (CAPM) and the mean-variance (M-V) rule, which are based on classic expected utility theory, have been heavily criticized theoretically and empirically. The advent of behavioral economics, prospect theory, and other psychology-minded approaches in finance challenges the rational investor model from which CAPM and M-V derive. Haim Levy argues that the tension between the classic financial models and behavioral economics approaches is more apparent than real. This book aims to relax the tension between the two paradigms. Specifically, Professor Levy shows that although behavioral economics contradicts aspects of expected utility theory, CAPM and M-V are intact in both expected utility theory and cumulative prospect theory frameworks. There is furthermore no evidence to reject CAPM empirically when ex ante parameters are employed. Professionals may thus comfortably teach and use CAPM and behavioral economics or cumulative prospect theory as coexisting paradigms.
- Investment Decisions and the Logic of Valuation* Carlo Alberto Magni, 2020-02-11. This book presents a new approach to the valuation of capital asset investments and investment decision making. Starting from simple premises and working logically through three basic elements: capital income and cash flow, it guides readers on an interdisciplinary journey through the subtleties of accounting and finance, explaining how to correctly measure a project's economic profitability and efficiency, how to assess the impact of investment policy and financing policy on shareholder value creation, and how to design reliable, transparent, and logically consistent financial models. The book adopts an innovative pedagogical approach based on a newly developed accounting and finance engineering system to help readers gain a deeper understanding of the accounting and financial magnitudes, learn about new analytical tools, and develop the necessary skills to practically implement them. This diverse approach to capital budgeting allows a sophisticated economic analysis in both absolute terms (values) and relative terms (rates of return) and is applicable to a wide range of economic entities, including real assets and financial assets, engineering designs and manufacturing schemes, corporate-financed and project-financed transactions, privately owned projects, and public investments, individual projects, and firms. As such, this book is a valuable resource for a broad audience, including scholars and researchers, industry practitioners, executives, and managers, as well as students of corporate finance managerial finance engineering economics financial management management accounting operations research and financial mathematics It features more than 180 guided examples 50 charts and figures and over 160 explanatory tables that help readers grasp the new concepts and tools Each chapter starts with an abstract and a list of the skills readers can expect to gain and concludes with a list of key points summarizing the content
