Congress. Senate. Committee on Energy and Natural Resources,1979 Making Government Operations More Sustainable Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environmental Audit Committee,2008 Greening Government operations is important in its own right because of the size and range of their environmental impacts Each year central Government offices produce approximately 2 3 million tonnes of CO2 emissions around 0 4 per cent of the UK total and 309 000 tonnes of waste Central Government spends 60 billion on goods and services each year and through sustainable procurement it could accelerate the take up of environmentally friendly products This report examines progress relating to carbon emissions renewable energy carbon neutrality energy consumption Government response to the Sustainable Development Commission SDC the role of the Sustainable Development Commission The record is poor on carbon emissions Excellent progress has been made on increasing the use of green electricity but progress on generating its own electricity from on site or district renewables has been very disappointing The target of making the Government Estate carbon neutral by 2012 will depend very heavily on buying offsets It is important the Government does as much as possible to reduce its own emissions The newly announced Greening Government IT programme is encouraging given that increased use of IT would appear to be the biggest single factor in the upward trend in emissions from civil departments The Government has encouragingly announced significant reforms in its response to the SDC s report The Commission is having a significant influence in galvanising Government to improve its structures House of Commons - Environmental Audit Committee: Energy Subsidies - HC 61 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environmental Audit Committee,2013-12-02 The Government is shifting the goal posts on fuel poverty so that official statistics record far fewer households as fuel poor The changes to the fuel poverty definition and target in part being made through amendments to the Energy Bill should be stopped unless the Government is prepared to make a public commitment to end fuel poverty altogether A short term bid to cut bills must not throw energy and climate change policy off course In the longer term green levies could actually keep bills down if they drive energy efficiency improvements that cut the cost of heating our homes Insulating homes and supporting green technologies is vital to help the fuel poor and cut the emissions causing climate change At the Rio 20 Summit and the G20 the Government committed itself to phasing out fossil fuel subsidies that encourage wasteful consumption and contribute to greenhouse gas emissions The Government must set a target to reduce subsidies to harmful fossil fuels The Government should also use the Autumn Statement as an opportunity to provide a clear and comprehensive analysis of energy subsidies in the UK The report also looks at whether Government support for the new nuclear power station at Hinkley Point constitutes a subsidy and concludes that it does despite the Government's assurance otherwise The Government's policy of no public subsidy for new nuclear requires it to provide only similar support to that provided to other types of energy but even on that basis the deal for Hinkley Point C is dissimilar notably on support for decommissioning and waste
