

Why Fashion Is Really Important In Life

Fashion: It is everywhere. A constantly changing art form. Fashion itself reflects political, social and cultural changes, it a nonverbal communication. Some express who they are through fashion, others take fashion for granted. Fashion is self-expression of a person's character and spirit, it is always around us in shops and on billboards, we are surrounded.

Fashion has existed since the beginning of time, from cavemen wearing animal fur to lady gaga wearing a meat dress. If we go back in time, we see that fashion was not a statement, but a functional necessity needed for everyday life. If we fast forward to the 21st century we see that fashion is not just about function it is about identity.

In this world everyone wants to be accepted, it is one of the human beings most prominent requirements. When wearing styles that are "popular" at a certain point in time can make someone feel better about themselves. So, what is it about an item of clothing that we are wearing that makes us feel good about ourselves? Is it because we get compliments that make us self-assured? Or is it because we deep down know we look good? I believe that it is both.

Exploring culture and identity through fashion: We use fashion as an identification tool, even though we try not to, we read people depending on what they are wearing, you can judge where they might come from, their religion and some personality traits.

For instance the kilt is associated with Scotland, originating from the traditional wear of Gaelic men and boys in the Scottish Highlands, although this is no longer a form on casual wear, the average Scottish person would wear the kilt on formal occasions such as weddings, funerals, highland games and is the formal wear for pipe bands.

Secondly, we see in some cultures such as Islam women are required to wear a hijab which covers everything but the hands, face and feet. In Islamic culture the women are required to appear in the hijab in front of men they could hypothetically wed to, yet women are not required to wear the hijab in front of family members.

Cost of fashion: It is not hard to believe that the fashion industry is worth £214.4 billion and is soon to increase to £251.1 billion by 2022, this is partly due to Fast Fashion, Fast Fashion is when the production process of garments are sped up in order to have new catwalk trends into stores or online as soon as possible.

The problem with Fast Fashion is that
