

Why Do You Want to Study Abroad

I wanted to go abroad to see the world since I was a child, so try to study hard in to have good performance. Because it is my first time abroad, I will go abroad without any relatives or friends. I must learn to be independent, especially when I encounter difficulties, I must learn how to take care of myself. Then I will go to school. If there will be a language barrier, if I cannot communicate with others smoothly, this is the biggest difficulty because the absence of communication means no friends, learning is very difficult.

Yes, money has become the biggest problem because the living environment in foreign countries is different. Working for money and housing are also problems. It's good to live in your home because it saves a lot of money. However, if you rent a house, the rent should be very expensive, and comfortable or uncomfortable living is another issue. You have to look for a place closer to the school. If you share with others, be careful about your finances. Maybe everyone from a different country will have argument.

Now many people choose to study abroad. Frankly speaking, if there are such conditions, the advantage is that studying abroad is a rare opportunity to broaden your horizons and increase your knowledge. It will even be attracted to different local cultures. However, studying abroad is a major decision for everyone and every family. Before we go abroad, we should consider the purpose of studying abroad. What do we hope to get from studying abroad? What are the advantages of studying abroad?

Secondly, the information technology in modern society is very developed. You might think you can learn everything about the developed world through the media and the Internet. You can imagine how you live in a foreign country. But that kind of imagination is completely different from the reality of my life abroad. Breathing fresh air and realizing the humanistic care of local people will be an experience that I cannot experience in China. Studying abroad will greatly broaden your horizons, experience multiculturalism, exercise independent thinking, live independently, develop a calm attitude towards victory and defeat, and help you understand human nature and society more comprehensively. It will also make me care and love my country more. Thirdly, the choice of studying abroad is very diversified.

There are two implications. First, foreign universities offer a wide range of majors. Many majors are still blank in China, or domestic peers are not universally recognized. Typical examples include clinical medicine and law. As far as I know, like medicine, some countries are not allowed to study. If I want to do an internship abroad. Then I only chose foreign degrees. Secondly, in China, most graduate students still need a bachelor's degree and professional background, while studying abroad is more flexible, no examination is required, and it is more convenient to change majors.
