Landscape Planning with Ecosystem Services Christina von Haaren, Andrew A. Lovett, Christian Albert, 2019-06-25 Human well being depends in many ways on maintaining the stock of natural resources which deliver the services from which human s benefit However these resources and flows of services are increasingly threatened by unsustainable and competing land uses Particular threats exist to those public goods whose values are not well represented in markets or whose deterioration will only affect future generations As market forces alone are not sufficient effective means for local and regional planning are needed in order to safeguard scarce natural resources coordinate land uses and create sustainable landscape structures This book argues that a solution to such challenges in Europe can be found by merging the landscape planning tradition with ecosystem services concepts Landscape planning has strengths in recognition of public benefits and implementation mechanisms while the ecosystem services approach makes the connection between the status of natural assets and human well being more explicit It can also provide an economic perspective focused on individual preferences and benefits which helps validate the acceptability of environmental planning goals Thus linking landscape planning and ecosystem services provides a two way benefit creating a usable science to meet the needs of local and regional decision making The book is structured around the Driving forces Pressures States Impacts Responses framework providing an introduction to relevant concepts methodologies and techniques It presents a new ecosystem services informed approach to landscape planning that constitutes both a framework and toolbox for students and practitioners to address the environmental and landscape challenges of 21st century Europe

Services GATS The questions raised by the case whether and how a Government could block service provision on moral grounds went to the heart of key controversies surrounding international economic law How do you reconcile a liberal system of international trade in services with national governments desire to protect social values through service regulation How much control are the WTO members willing to transfer to the WTO How much regulatory diversity can the international trading system withstand This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the regulation of services under the WTO s GATS Agreement Through a thorough examination of the GATS negotiation history substantive provisions judicial interpretation and ongoing reform process the book presents a clear picture of how the multilateral trading system justifies and tolerates regulatory diversity In this respect the book focuses on the core general principles of necessity and transparency which would allow the assessment of the consistency with the GATS of domestic regulations in services at a horizontal cross sectoral level In addition the book reviews with a critical eye the ongoing GATS negotiations on the creation of rules on domestic regulations
