Kathleen Heid, 2018-01-01 The depth and breadth of a mathematics teacher's understanding of mathematics matter most as the teacher engages in the daily work of teaching One of the major challenges to teachers is to be ready to draw on the relevant mathematical ideas from different areas of the school curriculum and from their postsecondary mathematics experiences that can be helpful in explaining ideas to students making instructional decisions creating examples and engaging in other aspects of their daily work Being mathematically ready and confident requires teachers to engage in ongoing professional learning that helps them to connect mathematics to events like those they live on a daily basis The purpose of this volume is to provide teachers teacher educators and other facilitators of professional learning opportunities with examples of authentic events and tools for discussing those events in professional learning settings The work shared in Facilitator's Guidebook for Use of Mathematics Situations in Professional Learning Guidebook resulted from a collaborative effort of school mathematics supervisors and university mathematics educators The collaborators joined their varied experiences as teachers coaches supervisors teacher educators and researchers to suggest ways to scaffold activities encourage discussion and instigate reflection with teacher participants of differing mathematics backgrounds and with varying teaching assignments Each guide has ideas for engaging and furthering mathematical thought across a range of facilitator and participant mathematics backgrounds and draws on the collaborators uses of the Situations with in service and prospective teachers The events and mathematical ideas connected to each event come from Situations in Mathematical Understanding for Secondary Teaching A Framework and Classroom Based Situations A Situation is a description of a classroom related event and the mathematics related to it For each of six Situations school and university collaborators developed a facilitator s guide that presents ideas and options for engaging teachers with the event and the mathematical ideas The Guidebook also contains suggestions for how teachers and others might develop new Situations based on events from their own classrooms as a form of professional learning Both teacher educators and school based facilitators can use this volume to structure sessions and inspire ideas for professional learning activities that are rooted in the daily work of mathematics teachers and students

Trust-based Recommendations in Multi-layer Networks Claudia Heß,2008 The huge interest in social networking applications Friendster com for example has more than 40 million users led to a considerable research interest in using this data for generating recommendations Especially recommendation techniques that analyze trust networks were found to provide very accurate and highly personalized results The main contribution of this thesis is to extend the approach to trust based recommendations which up to now have been made for unlinked items such as products or movies to linked resources in particular documents Therefore a second type of network namely a document reference network is considered apart from the trust network This is for example the citation network of scientific publications or the hyperlink graph of webpages Recommendations for documents are typically made by reference based visibility measures which consider a document to be the more important the more often it is referenced by important documents These two networks as well as further networks such as organization networks are integrated in a multi layer network This architecture allows for combining classical measures for the visibility of a document with trust based recommendations giving trust enhanced visibility measures Moreover an approximation approach is introduced which considers the uncertainty induced by duplicate documents These measures are evaluated in simulation studies The trust based recommender system for scientific publications SPRec implements a two layer architecture and provides personalized recommendations via a web interface Discourse In and Through the Media Marina Bondi, Silvia Cacchiani, 2016-01-14 This book is a result of the 2013 CLAVIER Conference held in Modena in November 2013 and includes a selection of the papers presented on that occasion As the title suggests this volume encourages cross generic and cross disciplinary investigations in order to advocate integrated approaches to the study of media discourse regarding both theoretical background and practical applications Bringing together a wide range of case studies the book fosters debate on a variety of aspects related to the representation of specialised discourse in and through the media including for example voice and point of view argumentative practices knowledge construction multimodality the re contextualization and re conceptualization of knowledge opinion formation and peer to peer communication and popularization in and through traditional digital and social media Taken together the contributions to this volume provide extensive exemplification of the type of research currently being conducted on these issues The variety of the questions posed and the wide array of methods used here therefore represent a substantial contribution to sharpening existing knowledge and furthering the ongoing debate among scholars in the field Advances in Intelligent Informatics, Smart Technology and Natural Language
