Tippet, Todd M. Milford, 2019-07-01 This book offers a meso level description of demographics science education and science teacher education Representing all 13 Canadian jurisdictions the book provides local insights that serve as the basis for exploring the Canadian system as a whole and function as a common starting point from which to identify causal relationships that may be associated with Canada's successes. The book highlights commonalities, consistencies and distinctions across the provinces and territories in a thematic analysis of the 13 jurisdiction-specific chapters. Although the analysis indicates a network of policy and practice issues warranting further consideration, the diverse nature of Canadian science education makes simple identification of causal relationships elusive. Canada has a reputation for strong science achievement. However, there is currently limited literature on science education in Canada at the general level or in specific areas such as Canadian science curriculum or science teacher education. This book fills that gap by presenting a thorough description of science education at the provincial/territorial level as well as a more holistic description of pressing issues for Canadian science education.

Jenkins, 2005-12-20 Diane Shorrocks Taylor School of Education University of Leeds UK. In September 1998 a conference was held at the University of Leeds entitled 'International comparisons of pupil performance: issues and policy'. It was arranged by two groups within the School of Education at the University: the newly formed Assessment and Evaluation Unit and the Centre for Studies in Science and Mathematics Education. The joint interest in international comparisons of performance had itself arisen from earlier involvement in a follow-up study of the 1995 TIMSS work in England, reported in a later chapter in this book, in which the TIMSS assessment outcomes were studied alongside the outcomes from the National Curriculum testing programme in England. Some of the results of this investigation had proved both interesting and challenging, so the decision was made to promote wider discussion of some key issues by inviting contributors from all over the world to a meeting, the major aims of which were to promote an exploration of the theoretical foundations of international comparative studies of student performance, the practical problems of carrying out such studies, the appropriateness of the assessment models and approaches used in international comparisons, the role of international comparative studies in raising standards of student performance and how international studies affect the shaping of national policy on education.
