Marine Protected Areas Network in the South China Sea Vu Hai Dang, 2014-01-09 The once pristine and rich marine environment of the South China Sea is degrading at an alarming rate due to the rapid socioeconomic development of the region Despite this and due mainly to complicated sovereignty and maritime disputes coastal States have not been able to develop effective regional cooperation to safeguard the shared marine environment Marine Protected Areas Network in the South China Sea discusses legal and political measures to support the development of a network of marine protected areas in the South China Sea Such a network if properly developed would not only help to protect the marine environment and resources of the region but also contribute to decreasing the tension among its coastal States These measures are suggested in accordance with international law based on the specific geopolitical context of the South China Sea region and take into consideration experiences in developing regional networks of marine protected areas from other marine regions

Quantum Kirwan Map: Bubbling and Fredholm Theory for Symplectic Vortices over the Plane Fabian Ziltener, 2014-06-05 Consider a Hamiltonian action of a compact connected Lie group on a symplectic manifold Conjecturally under suitable assumptions there exists a morphism of cohomological field theories from the equivariant Gromov Witten theory of to the Gromov Witten theory of the symplectic quotient The morphism should be a deformation of the Kirwan map The idea due to D A Salamon is to define such a deformation by counting gauge equivalence classes of symplectic vortices over the complex plane The present memoir is part of a project whose goal is to make this definition rigorous Its main results deal with the symplectically aspherical case The Report of the Republic of Botswana's Parliamentary Special Select Committee of Inquiry Into the Botswana Meat Commission and the Decline of the Botswana Beef Industry Botswana.

Parliament. Special Select Committee of Inquiry into the Botswana Meat Commission and the Decline of the Botswana Beef Industry, 2013 Transformative Food Value Chains for Local Development Silke Maria Stöber, Wolfgang Bokelmann, Walter Odongo, Susanne Huyskens-Keil, Joanita Kataike, 2024-01-26 Understanding the capacity of food systems to undertake a transformation towards sustainability requires understanding how resources stream in and out of the systems As complex socio economic structures food and agricultural value chains are important means for channeling resources knowledge and agency in and out of rural areas Given their prominent role on the development agendas there is mixed evidence as to what extent value chains and their actors can contribute to improving the livelihoods in poor rural and urban areas In order to shape sustainable living places transformative capacities and good governance are important mainstays Transformative agri food value chains are robust and often act as the sole transmission belt for returning capital resources and identity back into vulnerable areas Moreover domestic or regional chains may provide urban consumers with fresh quality food that also contributes to regional identity Numerical and Physical Aspects of Aerodynamic Flows IV Tuncer Cebeci, 2013-06-29 This volume contains a selection of the papers presented at the Fourth Symposium on Numerical and Physical Aspects of Aerodynamic Flows which was held at the California State University Long Beach from 16-19 January 1989. It includes the Stewartson Memorial Lecture of Professor J. H. Whitelaw and is divided into three parts. The first is a collection of papers that describe the status of current technology in two and three dimensional steady flows; the second deals with two and three dimensional unsteady flows; and the papers in the third address stability and transition. Each of the three parts begins with an overview of current research as described in the following chapters. The individual papers are edited versions of the selected papers originally submitted to the symposium. Four years have passed since the Third Symposium and certain trends become clear if one compares the papers contained in this volume with those of previous volumes. There are more three than two dimensional problems considered in Part 1 and the latter address more difficult problems than in the past, for example the extension to higher angles of attack to transonic flow to leading edge ice accretion and to thick hydrofoils. The large number of papers in the first part reflects the emphasis of current research and development and the needs of industry.

Readings in Qualitative Reasoning About Physical Systems Daniel S. Weld, Johan De Kleer, 2013-09-17. Readings in Qualitative Reasoning about Physical Systems describes the automated reasoning about the physical world using qualitative representations. This text is divided into nine chapters each focusing on some aspect of qualitative physics. The first chapter deals with qualitative physics which is concerned with representing and reasoning about the physical world. The goal of qualitative physics is to capture both the commonsense knowledge of the person on the street and the tacit knowledge underlying the quantitative knowledge used by engineers and scientists. The succeeding chapter discusses the qualitative calculus and its role in constructing an environment that includes behavior over both mythical time and elapsed time. These topics are followed by reviews of the mathematical aspects of qualitative reasoning, history based simulation and temporal reasoning as well as the intelligence in scientific computing. The final chapters are devoted to automated modeling for qualitative reasoning and causal explanations of behavior. These chapters also examine the qualitative kinematics of reasoning about shape and space. This book will prove useful to psychologists and psychiatrists.

Radiation and Water in the Climate System Ehrhard Raschke, 2013-06-29. The search for an accurate knowledge of the transfer of energy and water in our climate system and of all participating processes is still a burning issue within environmental and climate research. More reliable ways should be found to model them in their complex interplay with cascades of processes in that system and their impact on all our resources on earth. Such modelling needs also validation with accurate and complete observations which in turn should also enable to observe variations of climate components. These are the goals of the Global Energy and Water Experiment GEWEX which began its work about 8 years ago. Many advanced remote sensing capabilities have now been developed of which only a few will enter into satellite based platforms. These new developments should be brought to the attention of a broader community of younger scientists in particular of those countries which quite recently could open their borders for free exchanges.
