Polysystems The Production and Reception of Translated Children s Literature in South Africa is an original and provocative contribution to the field of children s literature research and translation studies It draws on a variety of methodologies to provide a perspective both product and process oriented on the ways in which translation contributes to the production of children s literature in South Africa with a special interest in language and power as well as post and neocolonial hybridity The book explores the forces that affect the use of translation in producing children s literature in various languages in South Africa and shows how some of these forces precipitate in the selection production and reception of translated children s books in Afrikaans and English It breaks new ground in its interrogation of aspects of translation theory within the multilingual and postcolonial context of South Africa as well as in its innovative experimental investigation of the reception of domesticating and foreignising strategies in translated picture books The book has won the 2013 EST Young Scholar Prize

The Believer's Brain Kenneth M. Heilman,Russell S. Donda,2014-01-21 About 90% of people have faith in a supreme being but our yearning for the divine and whatever it promises involves a large divergence in mental states and behaviors Some adhere to doctrine supplication and fastidious religious practices others have a strong sense they are part of something greater and more universal However all religious and spiritual paths are mediated by complex brain networks When different areas of the brain are stimulated a person can have a variety of experiences but there is no specific God spot where stimulation enhances religiosity or spirituality Functional brain imaging shows that there are specific areas of the brain that light up when subjects perform certain religious activities but imaging only provides anatomic correlations not functional explanations The Believer s Brain takes a step beyond these singular methodologies providing converging evidence from a variety study methods of how humans brain networks mediate different aspects of religious and spiritual beliefs feelings actions and experiences Although the book reveals how our brain is the home to the religious and spiritual mind understanding this gift will not diminish our spirituality or our love or our belief in a supreme being but will increase appreciation of the apparatus that mediates these mental states Kid's Box Starter Teacher's Book Lucy Frino,Caroline Nixon,Michael Tomlinson,2014-06-26 Second edition of this popular course for young learners now seven levels including
