Report 2008, 2008 Economic Integration in South Asia Rizwanul Islam, 2012-03-28 Eight member countries of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation SAARC have recently concluded the Agreement on South Asian Free Trade Area SAFTA and SAARC Agreement on Trade in Services SATIS To date the progress of sub regional trade integration in South Asia appears to be rather lacklustre This book critically analyses the international legal aspects of economic integration in South Asia It argues that although there are economic constraints in bringing about greater economic integration in South Asia those constraints are not insurmountable Many of the constraints are merely outcomes of dubious policies pursued by the policy makers in the sub region and can be tackled with sustained political commitment towards the cause of the South Asian economic integration The Oxford Handbook on The World Trade Organization Amrita economic law from scholars who have shaped this debate for many years. The critical contributions to this volume are challenged and sometimes rejected by commentators who have been invited to be critical with the critics. The result is a unique collection of critical essays accompanied by alternative and competing views on some of the most fundamental topics of international economic law. In its section on regional developments, EYIEL 7 addresses recent megaregional and plurilateral trade and investment agreements and negotiations. Short insights on various aspects of the Transpacific Partnership (TPP) and its sister TTIP are complemented with comments on other developments including the African Tripartite FTA and the negotiations on a plurilateral Trade in Services Agreement (TiSA). Further sections address recent WTO and investment case law as well as recent developments concerning the IMF, UNCTAD and the WCO. The volume closes with reviews of recent books in international economic law.

China's Challenge to US Supremacy John G. Glenn, 2017-02-27. This book analyzes China's development in the wider context of the global trade, investment, security, knowledge and production regimes established by the United States. It argues that although China has thus far been able to enjoy rapid growth within this global architecture, it will have to deal with a more challenging external environment as other states react to its rise. More specifically, it is facing growing pressure to realign its currency, a greater number of trade, investment and intellectual property disputes, a more hostile security environment and exclusionary regional trans-Pacific and trans-Atlantic trade agreements. It is also being confronted by an array of internal issues from an ageing population and weaknesses in the high-tech sector to over-reliance on foreign companies for exports, non-performing loans and a burgeoning state debt. This in turn has led an increasing number of firms to relocate to other countries. For the time being, the author concludes, China's global ambitions and challenge to US supremacy will have to be scaled back. This insightful work will appeal to students and scholars of China's politics, economy and development.

Small States in the Multilateral Trading System Laura Gosset, 2015-11-20. Developing countries, including small states and least developed countries (LDCs), continue to face significant challenges within the global trading system. Action is required to allow them to overcome disadvantages and achieve sustainable levels of income from trade. This study provides a fresh perspective on how measures can be taken to enhance the participation of small states, many of which are Commonwealth countries in the multilateral trading system. It contributes to the ongoing general debate about reforming the World Trade Organization and global trade governance.

The Regulation of Agricultural Subsidies in the World Trade Organization Framework: A Developing Country Perspective Farai Chigavazira, 2016-09. The Agreement on Agriculture (AoA) was adopted to eliminate the illegitimate use of trade-distorting agricultural subsidies and thereby reduce and avoid the negative effects subsidies have on global agricultural trade. However, the AoA has been fashioned in a way that is enabling developed countries to continue high levels of protectionism through subsidization whilst many developing countries are facing severe and often damaging competition from imports artificially cheapened through subsidies. The regulation of subsidies by the World Trade Organisation (WTO) has been a highly sensitive issue. This is mainly due to the fear of compromising on food security especially by developed countries. Developing countries have suffered negatively from the subsidy programmes of developed countries which continue to subsidize their agricultural sector. This position of developing countries in the global trade system which has been described as weak has drawn criticism of the WTO namely that it does not protect the interests of the weak developing nations but rather strengthens the interests of the strong developed nations. The green box provisions which are specifically designed to regulate payments that are considered trade neutral or minimally trade distorting have grossly been manipulated by developed countries at the mercy of the AoA. Developed countries continue to provide trade distorting subsidies under the guise of green box support. This is defeating the aims and objectives of the AoA. The study examines the regulation of WTO agricultural subsidies from the developing countries perspective. It looks at the problems WTO member states face with trade distorting subsidies but focuses more on the impact these have on developing states. It scrutinizes the AoA's provisions regulating subsidies by adopting a perspective to identify any loopholes or shortcomings which undermine the interests and aspirations of developing countries. This is against the background that some of the provisions of the AoA are lenient towards the needs of developed countries at the expense of developing countries.

Handbook of Global Economic Governance Manuela Moschella, Catherine Weaver, 2013-12-17

Since the summer of 2007 the world scenario has been dominated by the US sub prime mortgage crisis and its repercussions on global financial markets and economic growth. As banks around the world wrote down their losses and governments intervened to rescue domestic financial institutions financial distress severely hit the real economy leading to what has been widely defined as the worst recession since the 1930s. Under these conditions along with the immediate concern for stemming the effects of the crisis policy makers around the world have been debating the long term measures that have to be adopted in order to reduce the likelihood of future crises and to ensure stable economic growth. Although this debate has not yet produced significant transformations it indicates a renewed concern about the institutional architecture that is meant to govern the global economic and financial system. This book tackles the issue of what the governance of the global economic and financial system looks like and what the prospects for its reform are. Specifically the book will address the following three main themes:

Governance What is governance in the international economic system? What forms does it take? How did it come about? How can we study it?

Functions of governance What are the functions of global economic governance? Who performs them? What are the rules and mechanisms that make global governance possible?

Problems and prospects of governance What are the problems in global economic governance? Is there a trade off between legitimacy and efficiency? What are the prospects for reform of global economic governance in the aftermath of the global financial crisis? This book will _ Provide a thorough analysis of the issues at stake in designing international rules and institutions able to govern the global economy _ Illustrate and analyze virtually all the main institutions rules and arrangements that make up global economic governance inscribing them within the function these institutions rules and arrangements are meant to perform _ Discuss the problems that affect today s global economic governance and assess alternative proposals to reform the international financial architecture

Digitalization in Open Economies Michael Vogelsang,2010-03-20 Digital strings are not visible but affect all economic segments This book studies the phenomenon of digitalization with the instruments of economics in order to explore the interdependencies between digitalization economic policy and macroeconomic variables of open economies Digitalization is separated into the three components networks IT services and digital goods which are then incorporated into macroeconomic models of trade theory in open economies This approach allows to formally describe the cross effects between digitalization and macroeconomic variables of a country Specifically it is used to analyze interdependencies between macroeconomic variables and networks IT services and digital goods and to determine the challenges of digitalization for economic policy and regulation

Negotiating Membership in the WTO and EU Jamie Scalera,2017-02-17 Focusing on accession processes in the WTO and EU this book explores how accession processes vary from state to state and the impact these variations have Arguing that the variations are due to factors at the domestic and international organizational level the author shows that the institutional capacity of the domestic bureaucracy and the level of public support for accession are the most important factors for the applicant state

The World Economy David Greenaway,2011-09-07 This is the seventeenth volume in an annual series in which leading economists provide a concise and accessible evaluation of major developments in trade and trade policy Examines key issues pertinent to the multinational trading system as well as regional trade arrangements and policy developments at the national level Provides up to date assessments of the World Trade Organization s current Trade Policy Reviews A vital resource for researchers analysts and policy advisors interested in trade policy and other open economy issues Analyses global trade policy in Turkey China and The Dominican Republic and a survey by Tarlok Singh questions whether international trade does cause economic growth Includes chapters exploring WTO issues and a section on regional trading agreements

Policy Space Conflicts in Global Trade Politics Qinyi Xu,Chuanjing Guan,2025-06-30 Policy Space Conflicts in Global Trade Politics delves into the structure driving forces and contemporary influencing factors of trade relations dynamics providing insights into the present and future trajectories of the global trade order The post pandemic global governance challenges combined with the concurrent if not concomitant escalation of economic rivalries between great powers are catalysing a weakening of the liberal international order undermining the very foundations upon which contemporary global production network is built With the return of geopolitical tensions the conflict over global governance versus state governance has again become the nexus where global trade politics are contested and negotiated This book presents the Policy Space Conflict framework an analytical framework that diverges from extant concepts of policy diffusion power transition socialisation and neo liberal institutionalist models of analyses and is instead advanced as a framework that renews the classic concept of policy space the space left for one to freely use preferred national policy instruments when integrated into the globalisation and institutionalisation process in the past decades The tensions inherent in and arising from policy space can be captured in the term policy space conflict illuminating the dynamic shifts regarding the convergence of rules under globalisation and de convergence concerns of states This book emphasises the underlying logic and motivating rationale that lie beneath the evolution of policy space conflict by theoretically revisiting the concept providing an overview of its forms in history since the Bretten Woods and transitions from market oriented to strategy based This exploration is examined using case studies drawn from real world trade politics which encompasses discussions on the decline of multilateralism the asymmetry in development between the Global South and Global North and China US institutional contestation This book will be of interest to scholars in the fields of international relations law political economy political science economics and international trade as well as a broad range of audiences who are concerned of global trade politics in times of global uncertainty Normative Conditions to Make WTO Law More Responsive to the Needs of Developing Countries Philipp Scheuermann,2010
