Mathematical Practitioners and the Transformation of Natural Knowledge in Early Modern Europe Lesley B. Cormack, Steven A. Walton, John A. Schuster, 2017-03-15 This book argues that we can only understand transformations of nature studies in the Scientific Revolution if we take seriously the interaction between practitioners those who know by doing and scholars those who know by thinking These are not in opposition however Theory and practice are end points on a continuum with some participants interested only in the practical others only in the theoretical and most in the murky intellectual and material world in between It is this borderland where influence appropriation and collaboration have the potential to lead to new methods new subjects of enquiry and new social structures of natural philosophy and science The case for connection between theory and practice can be most persuasively drawn in the area of mathematics which is the focus of this book Practical mathematics was a growing field in early modern Europe and these essays are organised into three parts which contribute to the debate about the role of mathematical practice in the Scientific Revolution First they demonstrate the variability of the identity of practical mathematicians and of the practices involved in their activities in early modern Europe Second readers are invited to consider what practical mathematics looked like and that although practical mathematical knowledge was transmitted and circulated in a wide variety of ways participants were able to recognize them all as practical mathematics Third the authors show how differences and nuances in practical mathematics typically depended on the different contexts in which it was practiced social cultural political and economic particularities matter Historians of science especially those interested in the Scientific Revolution period and the history of mathematics will find this book and its ground breaking approach of particular interest was the second Symposium of the second phase EUROTRAC 2 which is EUREKA environmental project number 1489 and also the first one organised by the new team at the International Scientific Secretariat ISS. We stayed with the tried and tested EUROTRAC format giving ample time for poster sessions as well as side meetings and workshops. The invited talks over 35 in all contributed breadth and depth. The Symposium had the focal points of Shaping the Future and Scientific Research and Environmental Policy. The Highlights from the Subprojects were well represented by a series of talks and of course by the ca 300 posters. Guest poster contributions added to the spectrum of scientific coverage. An innovation for 2000 is the publication of these Proceedings in a book containing the extended abstracts of the lectures and a companion CD ROM with the extended abstracts of the posters as well as the lectures. The availability of the Proceedings on a CD will enable us to distribute them more widely.

A Ruined Fortress? Alan W. Cafruny, Magnus Ryner, 2003-06-28. This challenging book argues convincingly that research on European integration has lagged behind important theoretical developments in the fields of international relations, international political economy and international organization. The contributors contend that prevailing theories of integration despite their considerable differences all suffer from an excessive focus on institutions and ideas while overlooking the ways in which these institutions and ideas have promoted a neoliberal agenda during the last decade. To overcome these weaknesses this volume draws on one of the key strands of theoretical innovation: critical political economy or transnational historical materialism to develop a more comprehensive and consistent analysis of processes of European integration. Although not claiming that states have ceded their role as masters of the treaties, the contributors develop innovative case studies of national and transnational processes to illustrate the salience of trans-European business networks and the primacy of neoliberalism as central organizing concepts of the post-Maastricht European project.

Contributions by Baastian van Apeldoorn, Hans Jürgen Bieling, Alan W. Cafruny, Ben Clift, Stephen Gill, Colin Hay, Otto Holman, Henk Overbeek, Kees van der Pijl, Magnus Ryner, Thorsten Schulten, Giles Scott Smith, Leila Simona Talani and Matthew Watson.

Globalisation and European Integration Petros Nousios, Henk Overbeek, Andreas Tsolakis, 2012. This book explores the links between European integration and globalisation and examines the potential for social transformation in the context of the global economic crisis and the resulting EU reforms. Divided into three parts, this book offers both empirical and theoretical analyses of social integration, supranationality and global competition. Drawing on Critical Political Economy research, Neo-Gramscian, Open Marxist, Regulationist and Post-structuralist scholars subject a wide range of European flagship policies in matters of competition, trade and security to critical scrutiny and relate them to global political economy dynamics. Contributors examine the ways in which current global economic turbulence has affected the European Union, its membership and its adjacent areas and determine the potential for economic and political transformation in light of the global economic crisis and Europe's 2020 Strategy. In the emerging multi-polar world in which the EU and the US are expected to share global policymaking with new powers, this book argues for a revised conceptualisation of European integration and its relationship with globalisation Globalisation and European Integration will be of interest to students scholars and researchers of globalisation political economy international relations and European Union politics Digital Policy in the EU Werner Stengg, 2024-08-06 This thought provoking book follows the EU's journey into the digital age explaining how it uses legislation and policy to tackle challenges such as the abuse of market power by Big Tech companies and the spread of hate speech and disinformation

Essential Outsiders Daniel Chirot, Anthony Reid, 2011-10-01 Ethnic Chinese in Southeast Asia like Jews in Central Europe until the Holocaust have been remarkably successful as an entrepreneurial and professional minority Whole regimes have sometimes relied on the financial underpinnings of Chinese business to maintain themselves in power and recently Chinese businesses have led the drive to economic modernization in Southeast Asia But at the same time they remain as the Jews were the quintessential outsiders In some Southeast Asian countries they are targets of majority nationalist prejudices and suffer from discrimination even when they are formally integrated into the nation The essays in this book explore the reasons why the Jews in Central Europe and the Chinese in Southeast Asia have been both successful and stigmatized Their careful scholarship and measured tone contribute to a balanced view of the subject and introduce a historical depth and comparative perspective that have generally been lacking in past discussions Those who want to understand contemporary Southeast Asian and the legacy of the Jewish experience in Central Europe will gain new insights from the book

Beyond the Learned Academy Philip Beeley, Christopher Hollings, 2023-12-06 The tremendous growth of the mathematical sciences in the early modern world was reflected contemporaneously in an increasingly sophisticated level of practical mathematics in fields such as merchants accounts instrument making teaching navigation and gauging In many ways mathematics shaped the knowledge culture of the age infiltrating workshops dockyards and warehouses before extending through the factories of the Industrial Revolution to the trading companies and banks of the nineteenth century While theoretical developments in the history of mathematics have been made the topic of numerous scholarly investigations in many cases based around the work of key figures such as Descartes Huygens Leibniz or Newton practical mathematics especially from the seventeenth century onwards has been largely neglected The present volume comprising fifteen essays by leading authorities in the history of mathematics seeks to fill this gap by exemplifying the richness diversity and breadth of mathematical practice from the seventeenth century through to the middle of the nineteenth century
