TOPIC: PRINCIPAL PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

PROBLEM STATEMENT

Principal leadership is correlated with student achievement, and there are significant links between specific principal behaviors and student achievement (Petersen et al., 2010; Tang et al., 2018). Researchers posit that "effective leadership means more than knowing what to do—it's knowing when, how, and why to do it" (Petersen et al., 2010, p. 2). However, there is limited research on the principal as a learner, specifically principal professional development, and its impact on principal leader effectiveness (Garcia, 2014). Researchers can identify the types of professional development experiences that are most likely to build principals' capacity to be successful leaders, negative selection trends and stagnant student achievement may be reversed.

PURPOSE OF THE STUDY

The purpose of this study is to explore the perceptions of principals regarding their preparedness to lead school improvement efforts. The research will seek to identify the types of professional development experiences that are most likely to build principals' capacity to be successful leaders, negative selection trends and stagnant student achievement may be reversed.

RESEARCH QUESTIONS

1. What are the most common types of professional development experiences that principals report as most effective in building their capacity to lead school improvement efforts?

POPULATION AND METHODOLOGY

The targeted population for this study is principal leaders in the state of Georgia. The study will seek to identify the types of professional development experiences that are most likely to build principals' capacity to be successful leaders, negative selection trends and stagnant student achievement may be reversed.

BACKGROUND

The role of the principal is a complex one, and it is one that is constantly evolving. As the role of the principal evolves, so do the challenges they face. One of the most significant challenges is the need to be highly visible and accessible to all stakeholders in the school community. This is a role that is often misunderstood, and it is one that is often undervalued. Principals are the face of the school, and they are the ones who are responsible for creating a positive and supportive learning environment for all students.
