Race and the Wild West Laura J. Arata, 2020-07-02 Winner of the Western Writers of America SPUR Award and the Western Association of Women Historians Gita Chaudhuri Prize Born a slave in eastern Tennessee Sarah Blair Bickford 1852-1931 made her way while still a teenager to Montana Territory where she settled in the mining boomtown of Virginia City Race and the Wild West is the first full length biography of this remarkable woman whose life story affords new insight into race and belonging in the American West around the turn of the twentieth century For many years Sarah Bickford's known biography fit into a single paragraph By examining her life in all its complexity Arata fills in what were long believed to be unrecoverable silent spaces in her story Before establishing herself as a successful business owner we learn she was twice married both times to white men Her first husband an Irish immigrant physically abused her until she divorced him in 1881 Their three children all died before the age of ten In 1883 she married Stephen Bickford and gave birth to four more children Upon his death she inherited his shares of the Virginia City Water Company acquiring sole ownership in 1917 For the final decade of her life Bickford actively preserved and promoted a historic Virginia City building best known as the site of the brutal lynching in 1864 of five men Her conspicuous role in developing an early form of heritage tourism challenges long standing narratives that place white men at the center of the Wild West myth and its promotion Bickford's story offers a window into the dynamics of race in the rural West Although her experiences defy easy categorization what is clear is that her navigation of social norms and racial barriers did not hinge on exceptionalism or tokenism. Instead she built a life that deserves to be understood on its own terms. Through exhaustive research and nuanced analysis, Laura J. Arata advances our understanding of a woman whose life embodied the contradictory intersections of hope and disappointment that characterized life in the early twentieth-century American West for brave pioneers of many races.

Debt Capital Markets Vincenzo Bavoso, 2024-11-11
Debt capital markets have been at the heart of regulatory and policy debates since the global financial crisis of 2008. In this work, Vincenzo Bavoso explores the role financial markets and products have in fuelling episodes of crises and financial instability. Focussing on the law and regulation but also drawing on current economics and finance scholarship, Debt Capital Markets examines both the pre-2008 regulatory environment and the framework that has emerged from post-crisis regulatory corrections. Charting the evolution of debt capital markets and the transformation and liberalisation of the financial markets throughout the 1980s and 1990s, the book outlines how debt capital markets, from bonds to more sophisticated forms of securitised credit, have become engines of private debt creation, excessive levels of leverage, and inevitably financial instability. It covers all the main channels of debt intermediation in capital markets: bonds, commercial paper, covered bonds, securitisation, collateralised debt obligations, collateralised loan obligations, and explains relevant synergies with adjacent markets and products such as credit derivatives, repurchase agreements, or FinTech lending. Bavoso argues that the regulatory response after the 2008 global financial crisis has been insufficient so that debt capital markets remain the main locus of financial instability today. His book provides a complex analysis of financial markets that accounts for theoretical, practical, and regulatory aspects. It provides a multifaceted and contextual appraisal of the role of debt capital markets together with the legal and regulatory challenges posed by their development.

Race and Gender in Modern Western Warfare David Ulbrich,Bobby A. Wintermute,2018-12-03 This book fills a gap in the historiographical and theoretical fields of race gender and war In brief Race and Gender in Modern Western Warfare RGMWW offers an introduction into how cultural constructions of identity are transformed by war and how they in turn influence the nature of military institutions and conflicts Focusing on the modern West this project begins by introducing the contours of race and gender theories as they have evolved and how they are employed by historians anthropologists sociologists and other scholars The project then mixes chronological narrative with analysis and historiography as it takes the reader through a series of case studies ranging from the early nineteenth century to the Global War of Terror The purpose throughout is not merely to create a list of so called great moments in race and gender but to create a meta landscape in which readers can learn to identify for themselves the disjunctures flaws and critical synergies in the traditional memory and history of a largely monochrome and male exclusive military experience The final chapter considers the current challenges that Western societies particularly the United States face in imposing social diversity and tolerance on statist military structures in a climates of sometimes vitriolic public debate RGMWW represents our effort to blend race gender and military war to problematize these intersections and then provide some answers to those problems
