Freeman, 2020-12-01 With The Human Animal Earthling Identity Carrie P Freeman asks us to reconsider the devastating division we have created between the human and animal conditions leading to mass exploitation injustice and extinction As a remedy Freeman believes social movements should collectively foster a cultural shift in human identity away from an egoistic anthropocentrism human centered outlook and toward a universal altruism species centered ethic so people may begin to see themselves more broadly as human animal earthlings To formulate the basis for this identity shift Freeman examines overlapping values supporting life fairness responsibility and unity that are common in global rights declarations and in the current campaign messages of sixteen global social movement organizations that work on human civil rights nonhuman animal protection and or environmental issues such as Amnesty International Human Rights Watch CARE People for the

Ethical Treatment of Animals the World Wildlife Fund the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society the Nature Conservancy the Rainforest Action Network and Greenpeace She also interviews the leaders of these advocacy groups to gain their insights on how human and nonhuman protection causes can become allies by engaging common opponents and activating shared values and goals on issues such as the climate crisis enslavement extinction pollution inequality destructive farming and fishing and threats to democracy Freeman's analysis of activist discourse considers ethical ideologies on behalf of social justice animal rights and environmentalism using animal rights respect for sentient individuals as a bridge connecting human rights to a more holistic valuing of species and ecological systems Ultimately Freeman uses her findings to recommend a set of universal values around which all social movements campaign messages can collectively cultivate respectful relations between human animal earthlings fellow sentient beings and the natural world we share

Knowing Life Brianne Donaldson, 2025-02-28 Knowing Life examines the limits of dominant knowledge forms that contribute to current practices negatively affecting more than human beings while also exploring alternative approaches to knowing that are capable of reducing harm and maximizing planetary thriving Specifically this volume seeks multispecies answers to long standing questions in Western philosophy Who or what counts as a knower What kinds of knowing are valid Is knowledge a product of mind body or something else Historically these epistemic questions have been answered in ways that neutralize the knowing and knowledge contribution of and for more than human beings as well as those on the margins of society considered less than human Consequently these epistemic assumptions often support the destruction of ecological habitats industrialization of food animals widespread use of insect and plant toxins water and air pollution climate extinctions ecological militarism and the perpetual flow of living beings used for entertainment research clothing companionship and economic resources In this book crosscultural and multidisciplinary contributors including lesser known global religious philosophical accounts philosophies of plant and insect life race and disability studies laboratory epistemology embodied semiotics and scholar artists challenge and expand these classical concepts through diverse modes of embodied engagement on multispecies knowing toward open futures of planetary co flourishing

The Animals' Agenda Marc Bekoff, Jessica Pierce, 2017-04-18 A compelling argument that the time has come to use what we know about the fascinating and diverse inner lives of other animals on their behalf Every day we are learning new and surprising facts about just how intelligent and emotional animals are did you know rats like to play and laugh and also display empathy and the ears and noses of cows tell us how they re feeling At times we humans translate that knowledge into compassion for other animals think of the public outcry against the fates of Cecil the lion or the captive gorilla Harambe But on the whole our growing understanding of what animals feel is not resulting in more respectful treatment of them Renowned animal behavior expert Marc Bekoff and leading bioethicist Jessica Pierce explore the real world experiences of five categories of animals beginning with those who suffer the greatest deprivations of freedoms and choice chickens pigs and cows in industrial food systems as well as animals used in testing and research including mice rats cats dogs and chimpanzees Next Bekoff and Pierce consider animals for whom losses of freedoms are more ambiguous and controversial namely individuals held in zoos and aquaria and those kept as companions Finally they reveal the unexpected ways in which the freedoms of animals in the wild are constrained by human activities and argue for a more compassionate approach to conservation In each case scientific studies combine with stories of individual animals to bring readers face to face with the wonder of our fellow beings as well as the suffering they endure and the major paradigm shift that is needed to truly ensure their well being The Animals Agenda will educate and inspire people to rethink how we affect other animals and how we can evolve toward more peaceful and less violent ways of interacting with our animal kin in an increasingly human dominated world

Mourning Animals Margo DeMello, 2016-08-01 We live more intimately with nonhuman animals than ever before in history The change in the way we cohabitate with animals can be seen in the way we treat them when they die There is an almost infinite variety of ways to help us cope with the loss of our nonhuman friends from burial cremation and taxidermy to wearing or displaying the remains ashes fur or other parts of our deceased animals in jewelry tattoos or other artwork to counselors who specialize in helping people mourn pets to classes for veterinarians to tips to help the surviving animals who are grieving their animal friends to pet psychics and memorial websites But the reality is that these practices and related beliefs about animal souls or animal afterlife generally only extend with very few exceptions to certain kinds of animals pets Most animals in most cultures are not mourned and the question of an animal afterlife is not contemplated at all Mourning Animals investigates how we mourn animal deaths which animals are grievable and what the implications are for all animals The Politics of Species Raymond Corbey, Annette Lanjouw, 2013-09-05 Experts from a range of disciplines identify the key barriers to a definition of moral respect that includes nonhuman animals Vegan Marketing Success Stories Sandra Nomoto, 2022-06-01 The vegan marketing bible you've been waiting for Billions of dollars are being invested into the vegan and plant based industries but who's going to come out on top Marketing touches almost every aspect of business messaging distribution customer service sales and public perception How do you know what marketing strategies or tactics work What media or social media outlets are important and when And how much should you budget Using case studies and examples from today's vegan industry leaders this vegan marketing book will teach you Marketing secrets of vegan and plant based businesses around the world How on and off line tactics contribute to a cohesive strategy Topical issues that few marketing books are talking about From reviewing the basics to defining the marketing terms you've seen but perhaps haven't implemented Vegan Marketing Success Stories covers your bases in marketing vegan businesses all without requiring a million dollar marketing budget Learn what vegan brands did to weather the pandemic and some that transitioned to become vegan The vegan industry is on the rise and Vegan Marketing Success Stories is equal parts inspirational cautionary tale and the practical manual you'll need to succeed today In depth engaging and immediately applicable Vegan Marketing Success Stories will be a boon to your business whether you're a startup or already making waves Victoria Moran Chief Compassion Officer Main Street Vegan Academy An Ethical Diet Erica Green, 2019-07-15 More people than ever before are adopting an ethical approach to the food they eat Countless celebrities have come out as vegan and every week a new vegan vlogger lights up social media At the same time vegan activists continue to raise awareness of ongoing cruelty within the food industry and entrepreneurs compete to develop new vegan food products This book helps new vegans negotiate the pitfalls of choosing ethical food It includes advice on reading labels and eating out with non vegan friends help sorting the myths from the facts and 10 great questions to ask a nutritionist The Ethics of Captivity Lori Gruen, 2014 In the United States roughly 2 million people are incarcerated billions of animals are held captive and then killed in the food industry every year hundreds of thousands of animals are kept in laboratories thousands are in zoos and aquaria millions of pets are captive in our homes Surprisingly despite the rich ethical questions it raises very little philosophical attention has been paid to questions raised by captivity Though conditions of captivity vary widely for humans and for other animals there are common ethical themes that imprisonment raises including the value of liberty the nature of autonomy the meaning of dignity and the impact of routine confinement on physical and psychological well being This volume brings together scholars scientists and sanctuary workers

Eastern Orthodox Christianity and Animal Suffering Christine Nellist, 2018-10-25 This book is the first academic work in Eastern Orthodox theological literature on the subject of animal suffering and human soteriology It represents a natural progression of the contemporary Eastern Orthodox academic debate on the environment and will be of interest not only to academic scholars in theology religion philosophy and ethics but also to the wider Christian and secular communities Using Biblical and Patristic teachings together with new social science research and contemporary science it presents arguments that animal suffering is against God's Will and that the abuse or misuse of animals or indifference to animal suffering will result in negative consequences for human salvation The book posits a revisionist interpretation of the Noahic narrative when addressing the challenging question of why God allows the dispensation of animals as food and offers compelling arguments on why the contemporary animal food production industries and animal testing model should be rejected

Ecology and Literatures in English Françoise Besson, 2018-12-14 In all latitudes writers hold out a mirror leading the reader to awareness by telling real or imaginary stories about people of good will who try to save what can be saved and about animals showing humans the way to follow Such tales argue that in spite of all destructions and tragedies if we are just aware of and connected to the real world around us to the blade of grass at our feet and the star above our heads there is hope in a reconciliation with the Earth This may start with the emergence or rather the return of a nonverbal language restoring the connection between human beings and the nonhuman world through a form of communication beyond verbalization Through a journey in Anglophone literature with examples taken from Aboriginal African American English Canadian and Indian works this book shows the role played by literature in the protection of the planet It argues that literature reveals the fundamental idea that everything is connected and that it is only when most people are aware of this connection that the world will change Exactly as a tree is connected with all the animal life in and around it texts show that nothing should be separated From Shakespeare s theatre to ecopoetics from travel writing to detective novels from children s books to novels all literary genres show that literature responds to the violence destroying lands men and nonhuman creatures whose voices can be heard through texts

Saving Animals Elan Abrell,2021-05-04 A fascinating and unprecedented ethnography of animal sanctuaries in the United States In the past three decades animal rights advocates have established everything from elephant sanctuaries in Africa to shelters that rehabilitate animals used in medical testing to homes for farmed animals abandoned pets and entertainment animals that have outlived their usefulness Saving Animals is the first major ethnography to focus on the ethical issues animating the establishment of such places where animals who have been mistreated or destined for slaughter are allowed to live out their lives simply being animals Based on fieldwork at animal rescue facilities across the United States Elan Abrell asks what saving caring for and sanctuary actually mean He considers sanctuaries as laboratories where caregivers conceive and implement new models of caring for and relating to animals He explores the ethical decision making around sanctuary efforts to unmake property based human animal relations by creating spaces in which humans interact with animals as autonomous subjects Saving Animals illustrates how caregivers and animals respond by cocreating new human animal ecologies adapted to the material and social conditions of the Anthropocene Bridging anthropology with animal studies and political philosophy Saving Animals asks us to imagine less harmful modes of existence in a troubled world where both animals and humans seek sanctuary

Art for Animals J. Keri Cronin,2018-04-09 Animal rights activists today regularly use visual imagery in their efforts to shape the public s understanding of what it means to be kind cruel and inhumane toward animals Art for Animals explores the early history of this form of advocacy through the images and the people who harnessed their power Following in the footsteps of earlier formed organizations like the RSPCA and ASPCA animal advocacy groups such as the Victoria Street

Society for the Protection of Animals from Vivisection made significant use of visual art in literature and campaign materials. But enabled by new and improved technologies and techniques they took the imagery much further than their predecessors did, turning toward vivid, pointed and at times graphic depictions of human-animal interactions. Keri Cronin explains why the activist community embraced this approach, details how the use of such tools played a critical role in educational and reform movements in the United States, Canada and England, and traces their impact in public and private spaces. Far from being peripheral illustrations of points articulated in written texts or argued in impassioned speeches, these photographs, prints, paintings, exhibitions, magic lantern slides and films were key components of animal advocacy at the time, both educating the general public and creating a sense of shared identity among the reformers. Uniquely focused on imagery from the early days of the animal rights movement and filled with striking visuals, Art for Animals sheds new light on the history and development of modern animal advocacy.
