Poole, 2025-08-26 How the Virginia Public Access Project revolutionized political transparency and won public trust In 1997 journalist David Poole launched a one employee nonprofit to shine light on a blind spot in Virginia s lax campaign finance system Over the next quarter century the Virginia Public Access Project VPAP assumed an increasingly larger role in state politics by addressing two crises in American democracy the decline of newspapers and the tribalization of politics VPAP built a sustainable business model that provided paywall free insights into state politics Most important VPAP adhered to a fiercely independent fact based approach that won the trust of Republicans and Democrats alike Trusted

Source written by VPAP's founder tells the unlikely story of how his organization revolutionized political transparency in Virginia. It describes the precarious early days when VPAP was financially dependent upon the same powerful interests it was shining a light on. Reflecting on VPAP's first twenty-five years, Poole brings a unique perspective to some of the most vexing issues of our time: money in politics, the crisis of American newspapers, the fracturing of information sources, and the precipitous erosion of confidence in our institutions. His account provides a blueprint for plucky nonprofits and offers hope that bipartisan trust is still possible even in times as troubled as ours.

Academic Library Website Benchmarks, 2008
 Academic Library Website Benchmarks is based on data from more than 80 academic libraries in the USA and Canada. The 125-page study presents detailed data on the composition of the academic library web staff, relations with the college and library information technology departments, use of consultants and freelancers, budgets, future plans, website marketing methods, website revision plans, usage statistics, use of software, development of federated search and online forms, and much more. Data is broken out by enrollment size, public and private status, Carnegie Class, as well as for libraries with or without their own web staff.

CONTENT MANAGEMENT Libraries take widely varying approaches to the issue of how should control the website and who should be empowered to add content to the site Some libraries prefer to centralize access in the hands of just a few librarians who act as gatekeepers to the website Others prefer to empower as many librarians as possible to contribute to the site and to oversee their own contributions to the site To achieve this some libraries have purchased off the shelf content management systems while others have developed in house content management systems that allow non technical librarians to function independent of the need for technical help

THE IMPACT OF CASCADING STYLE SHEETS CSS Cascading style sheet that allow librarians to edit entire sites or subsets of site with one click of the mouse have become popular ways to introduce some uniformity and lower the labor demand of editing public library websites Cascading style sheets are important because librarians are finding more and more reasons to add more and more content to their sites Public library websites have often quickly become unwieldy monsters that voraciously eat up librarian time Correcting and editing these beasts by hand is dangerous and cascading style sheets allow proper measured feeding without loss of limb

MOST POPULAR PAGES Some of the most popular pages on the public library websites surveyed were the events calendar basic library info page database gateways and children's and teen pages

STAFFING Relative to the importance of the library website to the overall success of the library the size of most library web staffs when such staffs exist is quite small Usually one to three individuals run the website and they often have other responsibilities The strategy that most have pursued to overcome their small staffs is to devolve responsibility for content to subject specialist librarians and to empower them to be able to edit the portions of the website for which they are responsible

UNIQUE CONTENT

Most librarians interviewed stressed the need to develop unique content that would draw traffic to the website. Among the type of content mentioned were interactive storytelling and educational games, reading lists and contests, book reviews by librarians posted online, subject guides and events calendars.

CHILDREN S TEEN SERVICES

One of the most vibrant areas for website development has been services for children and teens. This age group grew up with access to the world wide web and it is truly the only generation for which web use and communication is as natural as turning on the television for most Americans. Libraries have responded with books clubs, personalized spaces, interactive stories and games and other features aimed at this audience. Nonetheless many libraries have just scraped the surface of their potential in this area. We like what the Charlotte Mecklenburg County Public Library has done in this area: developing unique content, focused marketing and web teams to create a unique site for Charlotte area children.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

Many libraries have plans to digitize their special collections or at the very least to digitize finding aids for those collections and increase access to them through the library website. We expect that this will soon become a major area of public library investment and a challenge for website administrators who must devise access schemes to digitized resources.
