

WebLogic Server Installation User

- If we are using the Generic Package Installer or the Linux 64-bit installer, Oracle recommends that we set umask to 027 on our system prior to installation. This ensures that WebLogic Server file permissions will be set properly during installation. We can use the following command:

```

We must enter this command in the same terminal window from which you plan to run the WebLogic Server installer.

- When installing WebLogic Server on a UNIX or Linux operating system, do not run the installation program as the root user.
- When using a WebLogic Server(WLS) Upgrade installer to upgrade an existing WLS installation on Linux or UNIX operating systems, we must run the Upgrade installer using the same user ID as was used to perform the initial WLS installation.
- On Windows systems, if we want the option to create the Start menu shortcuts in the All Users folder, or in the Local User's Start menu folder, we must use an account that has administrator privileges when you log in to the target system.
