member of the Chinese Academy of Sciences      Knowledge, Politics and the History of Education Jesper Eckhardt Larsen, 2012 The humanities and social science disciplines are increasingly expected to prove their relevance faced with the politics of knowledge in the knowledge economy This tendency is investigated in this book regarding the discipline of the history of education in America and Europe      History as a Science: The Philosophy of R.G. Collingwood Jan van der Dussen, 1981-10-31 1 1 COLLINGWOOD S RECEPTION Collingwood s scholarly reputation is a complicated and variegated affair For one has not only to make a distinction between his reputation during his life and after his premature death in 1943 but also between his reputation as a philosopher and as an archaeologist and historian Collingwood himself considered philosophy as his primary occupation and his work in archaeology and history as that of an amateur This work however reached the highest standards and his contributions to archaeology and history have always been appreciated accordingly Though Collingwood s reputation as the main expert on Roman Britain in the period between the two wars remains unchallenged modern developments in this field have inevitably superseded his contributions and made them primarily voices from a past period Philosophy was the other half of Collingwood s scholarly life In his own thinking there was always a close relationship between philosophy and archaeological and historical practice His interpreters have not always recognized this connection I have met archaeologists who were surprised to hear that Collingwood was a philosopher as well who either did not know that he had been a practising and philosophers archaeologist and historian or thought it no more than a private hobby Collingwood s reputation as a philosopher was very different from the one he gained in archaeology and history For in the philosophical climate at Oxford between the wars he was always an isolated figure      Technological Development and Science in the Industrial Age P. Kroes, M. Bakker, 2013-03-09 Historians and philosophers of technology are searching for new approaches to the study of the interaction between science and technology New conceptual frameworks are necessary since the idea that technology is simply applied science is nothing short of a myth The papers contained in this volume deal primarily with cognitive and social aspects of the science technology issue One of the most salient features of these papers is that they show a major methodological shift in studying the interaction between science and technology Discussions of the science technology issue have long been dominated by the demarcation problem and related semantic issues about the notions science and technology and the technology is applied science thesis Instead of general global interpretation schemes and models of the interaction between science and technology detailed empirical case studies of cognitive and institutional connections between science and technology constitute the hard core of this book The book will be of interest to philosophers of science historians and philosophers of technology and science and sociologists of science      Historiography of the History of Science in Islamicate Societies Sonja Brentjes, 2023-09-05 This book presents eight papers about important historiographical issues as debated in the history of science in Islamicate societies the history of science and philosophy of medieval Latin Europe and the history of mathematics as an academic discipline Six papers deal with themes about the sciences in Islamicate societies from the ninth to the seventeenth centuries among them novelty context and decline Two other papers discuss the historiographical practices of historians of mathematics and other disciplines in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The central argument of the collected papers is that in addition and beyond the study of scientific texts and instruments historians of science in Islamicate societies need to pay attention to cultural material and social aspects that shaped the scientific activities of the authors and makers of such texts and instruments It is pointed out that the diachronic de contextualized comparison between methods and results of scholars from different centuries regions and cultures often leads to serious distortions of the historical record and is responsible for the long term neglect of scholarly activities after the so called Golden Age The book will appeal in particular to teachers of history of science in Islamicate societies to graduate students interested in issues of methodology and to historians of science grappling with the unresolved problems of how think and write about the sciences in concrete societies of the past instead of subsuming all extant texts instruments maps and other objects related to the sciences under macro level concepts like Islam or Latin Europe CS 1114     A History of Philosophy with Especial Reference to the Formation and Development of Its Problems and Conceptions Wilhelm Windelband, 1893
