South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heineken, 2020-01-01 This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state, how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment, how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement, force preparation, force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force, the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy, recruitment and retention, military veterans looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment, gender equality and mainstreaming, the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged, HIV/AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing, the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation, spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence security and civil-military relations of countries around the world.

It addresses the question of why and how distinctive new political cultures developed after the disintegration of the Roman World and to what degree their differences had already emerged in the first post-Roman centuries. The Latin West, Orthodox Byzantium and its Slavic periphery and the Islamic world each retained different parts of the Graeco-Roman heritage while introducing new elements.

For instance ethnicity became a legitimizing element of rulership in the West remained a structural element of the imperial periphery in Byzantium and contributed to the inner dynamic of Islamic states without becoming a resource of political integration Similarly the political role of religion also differed between the emerging post Roman worlds It is surprising that little systematic research has been done in these fields so far The 32 contributions to the volume explore this new line of research and look at different aspects of the process with leading western Medievalists Byzantinists and Islamicists covering a wide range of pertinent topics At a closer look some of the apparent differences between the West and the Islamic world seem less distinctive and the inner variety of all post Roman societies becomes more marked At the same time new variations in the discourse of community and the practice of power emerge Anybody interested in the development of the post Roman Mediterranean but also in the relationship between the Islamic World and the West will gain new insights from these studies on the political role of ethnicity and religion in the post Roman Mediterranean Human Performance, Situation Awareness, and Automation Dennis A. Vincenzi, Mustapha Mouloua, Peter A. Hancock, 2005-01-06 In 2000 the Conference on Automation joined forces with a partner group on situation awareness SA The rising complexity of systems demands that one can be aware of a large range of environmental and task based stimulation in order to match what is done with what has to be done Thus SA and automation based interaction fall naturally together and this conference is the second embodiment of this union Moving into the 21st century further diversification of the applications of automation will continue for example the revolution in genetic technology Given the broad nature of this form of human machine interaction it is vital to apply past lessons to map a future for the symbiotic relationship between humans and the artifacts they create It is as part of this ongoing endeavor that the present volume is offered
