The Palgrave Handbook of Media and Communication Research in Africa Bruce Mutsvairo, 2018-03-22 This handbook attempts to fill the gap in empirical scholarship of media and communication research in Africa from an Africanist perspective The collection draws on expert knowledge of key media and communication scholars in Africa and the diaspora offering a counter narrative to existing Western and Eurocentric discourses of knowledge production As the decolonial turn takes centre stage across Africa this collection further rethinks media and communication research in a post colonial setting and provides empirical evidence as to why some of the methods conceptualised in Europe will not work in Africa The result is a thorough appraisal of the current threats challenges and opportunities facing the discipline on the continent

Advances in understanding the pathogenetic mechanisms of neurodevelopmental disorders and neurodegenerative disease - The environment as a putative risk factor Anna Maria Lavezzi,Marco Colizzi,Pamela J. Lein,2023-09-05 Neurodevelopmental disorders are generally influenced by genetic as well as intrauterine and extrauterine factors that affect the fetal maternal environment and or brain development that continues after birth Specific genetic polymorphisms may increase susceptibility to environmental factors that alter the trajectory of brain development via diverse molecular mechanisms In particular the pre and post natal exposure to neurotoxic metals pesticides persistent organic pollutants and other chemicals is increasingly recognized as involved in the pathogenesis of neurodevelopmental disorders such as autism deficiency attention hyperactivity disorders neurodegenerative disorders such as Parkinson's and Alzheimer's disease chronic multiple sclerosis and even fetal and infant death including SIUDS Sudden Unexplained Intrauterine Death Syndrome and SIDS Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Serving Those Who Served Sarah LeMire, Kristen J. Lorenzo Pia, Francesca Garbarini, Andreas Kalckert, Hong Yu Wong, 2019-05-16 The conscious experience of the bodily self is a cornerstone of human nature which allows us to delineate the boundaries between the surrounding environment and us A plethora of clinical and experimental investigations has clearly demonstrated that bodily self consciousness draws on different neuro cognitive mechanisms with distinct anatomo functional underpinnings Among these the sense of body ownership i.e. my body belongs to me and the sense of agency i.e. I am the author of my actions have attracted increasing interest in recent years The former seems to be strongly rooted in afferent sensory signals whereas the latter appears to be rooted in efferent motor signals and or the monitoring of their sensory consequences Despite the consensus that the interplay between body ownership and the sense of agency contribute to the omnipresent conscious experience of the bodily self the character and the form of this relationship remain unclear Though research into the mechanisms underlying ownership e.g. bodily illusions or on agency e.g. intentional binding is blooming very few studies have aimed to investigate both these processes at the same time Therefore many questions remain unresolved for example how do the experiences of ownership and agency influence each other What are the anatomo functional substrates of their interplay and how does damage to these structures affect the experience of either ownership or agency or both in clinical populations What is the specific role of efferent and afferent signals and how may these be complimented by other inputs like emotional or interoceptive cues And going beyond the mechanisms and anatomical functional substrates are the rational relations between the representations underlying body ownership and agency so that ownership can be seen as a condition on intentional action and a sense of agency. Elucidating the complex relationship between ownership and agency is a crucial step in our understanding of bodily self-consciousness and may help us to better understand the variety of neurological psychiatric disorders affecting the perception of one's own body and its movements. These insights can contribute to the development of future prosthetic devices or virtual reality applications which may in turn allow for new approaches in neuroscience, rehabilitative medicine and therapeutic interventions.
