What Is The Christian Orient:

What is the Christian Orient? Ignace Dick,1967 Oriental Christian Biography, Containing Biographical Sketches of Distinguished Christians who Have Lived and Died in the East W. H. Carey,1850 Oriental Christian Biography ,1852

The Oriental Christian Spectator ,1833 The Oriental Christ Protap Chunder Mozoomdar,1883 The Christian Orient British Library,1978 Christianity in Western and Northern Europe Todd M. Johnson,Annemarie C Mayer,Kenneth R. Ross,2024-04-30 Although the origins of Christianity lie in the Near East Europe and Christianity have an exceptional relationship since most Europeans perceive Christianity as a Western more precisely as a European religion The region has seen rapid social change in the 21st century set off by factors including energy crisis and environmental awareness poverty and exclusion falling birthrates and increased migration changing attitudes to sexuality gender and family life and challenges to Europe's idea of itself and place in the global order Amidst all this flux this volume focuses on one particular issue the rapidly changing profile of the Christian faith that has shaped the life of the European continent for a millennium and more At a time when patterns of Christian life and worship appear to be dying out yet traces of new life are also appearing this volume maps out the current reality of Christianity in Western and Northern Europe with all its questions and uncertainties

Oriental Religions and Christianity Frank F. Ellinwood,2019-12-11 In Oriental Religions and Christianity Frank F. Ellinwood meticulously explores the intricate relationships and intersections between Eastern religions and the tenets of Christianity This scholarly work is characterized by its analytical literary style which invites readers to consider the philosophical underpinnings cultural contexts and theological implications of both Eastern and Western beliefs Ellinwood's insightful juxtaposition highlights shared motifs and unique distinctions making it an invaluable resource for those interested in comparative religion theology and the historical dialogue between these two rich spiritual traditions Frank F. Ellinwood was a prominent theologian and scholar deeply engaged with the complexities of religion and its impact on culture His extensive studies and travels throughout the East provided him with a unique perspective that informed his writing This background along with his commitment to fostering interfaith dialogue underscores his motivation to articulate the connections and divergences between Eastern religions and Christianity making this work a significant contribution to the field Readers seeking a deeper understanding of the philosophical frameworks and cultural narratives surrounding both traditions will find Oriental Religions and Christianity to be an enlightening and thought provoking read Ellinwood's nuanced examination not only enriches one's knowledge but also encourages a more profound appreciation for the diverse tapestry of spiritual thought

Franks, Muslims and Oriental Christians in the Latin Levant Benjamin Z. Kedar,2024-10-28 Steven Runciman characterized intellectual life in the Frankish Levant as disappointing Joshua Prawer claimed that the Franks refused to open up to the East's intellectual achievements The present collection the second by Benjamin Kedar in the Variorum series presents facts that require a modification of these still largely prevailing views The earliest laws of the Kingdom of Jerusalem were influenced by Byzantine legislation medical routine in the Jerusalem Hospital unparalleled in Europe had counterparts in Oriental hospitals worshippers of different creeds repeatedly converged multi directional conversion recurred time after time Several articles deal with groups that did abstain from intercultural contacts Muslim villagers Frankish clerics and hermits One article dwells on the asymmetry of Frankish and Muslim mutual perceptions The volume concludes with studies of specific locations one argues that Acre was considerably larger than hitherto assumed another compares its Venetian and Genoese quarters and attempts to locate the remains of a main street a third reconstructs the history of Caymont

Oriental Religions and Christianity A Course of Lectures Delivered on the Ely Foundation Before the Students of Union Theological Seminary, New York, 1891 Frank F. Ellinwood, 1896-01-01 It is said that the very latest among the sciences is the Science of Religion Without pausing to inquire how far it admits of scientific treatment certain reasons which may be urged for the study of the existing religions of the world will be considered in this lecture It must be admitted in the outset that those who have been the pioneers in this field of research have not as a rule been advocates of the Christian faith The anti Christian theory that all religions may be traced to common causes that common wants and aspirations of mankind have led to the development of various systems according to environment has until recently been the chief spur to this class of studies Accordingly the religions of the world have been submitted to some preconceived philosophy of language or ethnology or evolution with the emphasis placed upon such facts as seemed to comport with this theory Meanwhile there has been an air of broad minded charity in the manner in which the apologists of Oriental systems have treated the subject They have included Christ in the same category with Plato and Confucius and have generally placed Him at the head and this supposed breadth of sentiment has given them a degree of influence with dubious and wavering Christians as well as with multitudes who are without faith of any kind In this country the study of comparative religion has been almost entirely in the hands of non evangelical writers We have had The Ten Great Religions from the pen of Rev James Freeman Clarke The Oriental Religions written with great labor by the late Samuel Johnson and Mr Moncure D Conway s Anthology with its flowers gathered from the sacred books of all systems and so chosen as to carry the implication that they all are equally inspired Many other works designed to show that Christianity was developed from ancient sun myths or was only a plagiarism upon the old mythologies of India have been current among us But strangely enough the Christian Church has seemed to regard this subject as scarcely worthy of serious consideration With the exception of a very able work on Buddhism and several review articles on Hinduism written by Professor S H Kellogg very little has been published from the Christian standpoint The term heathenism has been used as an expression of contempt and has been applied with too little discrimination
