Exploring Ordinary Theology Revd Canon Leslie J Francis,Revd Jeff Astley,2013-04-28 Ordinary theology characterizes the reflective God talk of the great majority of churchgoers and others who remain largely untouched by the assumptions concepts and arguments that academic theology takes for granted Astley coined the phrase in his innovative study Ordinary Theology Looking Listening and Learning in Theology arguing that speaking statistically ordinary theology is the theology of God s

Church Exploring Ordinary Theology presents fresh contributions from a wide range of authors who address the theological empirical and practical dimensions of this central feature of ordinary Christian existence and the life of the Church

Passion And Social Constraint Ernest Van Den Haag, In intellectual and academic circles Ernest van den Haag is respected for his brilliant mind his outspoken and often highly controversial assertions and a very unacademic sharp biting style Passion and Social Constraint before its adaptation into a book for the general reader was part of an enormous textbook which Dr van den Haag wrote with Professor Ralph Ross called The Fabric of Society It received an unprecedented rave review in the New Yorker this book is everything a text book should not be cynical witty up to date and shamelessly opinionated Altogether a rare treat It attracted the attention of the experts in psychology and sociology and the devotion of students and will now have enormous appeal to the layman who wants insight into who he is sexually psychologically and individually In Passion and Social Constraint Ernest van den Haag is deeply concerned with the necessity and difficulty of being an individual in a society which tends more and more to standardize every facet of life He deals with anxiety sex and the problem of who is normal the status of women the authority of parents the family as an industry in present day America conflict and power and who gets what the furnished souls of popular culture and why it is that science cannot give us a measure for happiness or for despair Van den Haag's style will delight you some of his phrases are destined for Bartlett though his judgments will sometimes stir you to anger Ernest van den Haag taught at New York University and the New School for Social Research and the New York Law School he was also a practicing psychoanalyst He was born in The Hague and was educated In France Germany Italy Iowa and New York He was an associate of the National Review for forty five years Ralph Ross his collaborator on the original The Fabric of Society was professor of philosophy and chairman of the Humanities Program at the University of Minnesota

Balance Mingbini Zeng, 2016-03-31 China has its own history and success in business with a system of management which is very different to Western models China's business methods are receiving more global attention as the Chinese economy rises and proves resilient to many international financial problems However Chinese business and management are not widely understood outside China The author of this book addresses this issue by discussing Western and Chinese management practices and exploring how successful management practices can be learned from both models An understanding and appreciation of both Western and Chinese management is likely to be essential for the corporate leaders of tomorrow The author argues that good management education should not only pay attention to the preaching of theories and techniques but also value the teaching of wisdom and art and thus get a good balance between the two In other words it means keeping a dynamic balance so as to ensure the compatibility of Yin and Yang and the coexistence of two extremes reaching the final goal of all living creatures growing together without doing harm to one another roads running parallel without interfering with each other This is the so called multi existence mutual generation and restriction harmonious relationship and continuous reproduction path An excellent corporate leader must be equipped with profound knowledge of how to make an organic bond between the western management teachings and Chinese traditional culture and help local Chinese management models take shape Academically speaking the combination of Dao ideology culture wisdom art etc and Shu regulation system process model tool etc shows us a way of good corporate governance Only when leaders effectively find a balance between Dao and Shu can they walk along the road from excellence to brilliance The author Zeng Mingbin is from China and has many years working experience in both Chinese and foreign enterprises in corporate management consulting and training
