Barton Palmer, 2007-02-22 The essays in this collection analyse major film adaptations of twentieth century American fiction from F Scott Fitzgerald's The Last Tycoon to Toni Morrison's Beloved During the century films based on American literature came to play a central role in the history of the American cinema Combining cinematic and literary approaches this volume explores the adaptation process from conception through production and reception The contributors explore the ways political and historical contexts have shaped the transfer from book to screen and the new perspectives that films bring to literary works In particular they examine how the twentieth century literary modes of realism modernism and postmodernism have influenced the forms of modern cinema Written in a lively and accessible style the book includes production stills and full filmographies Together with its companion volume on nineteenth century fiction the volume offers a comprehensive account of the rich tradition of American literature on screen F. Scott Fitzgerald's Fiction John T. Irwin, 2014-03-28 A personal interpretation of one of America's most important writers Fitzgerald's work has always deeply moved me writes John T Irwin And this is as true now as it was fifty years ago when I first picked up The Great Gatsby I can still remember the occasions when I first read each of his novels remember the time place and mood of those early readings as well as the way each work seemed to speak to something going on in my life at that moment Because the things that interested Fitzgerald were the things that interested me and because there seemed to be so many similarities in our backgrounds his work always possessed for me a special personal authority it became a form of wisdom a way of knowing the world its types its classes its individuals In his personal tribute to Fitzgerald's novels and short stories Irwin offers an intricate vision of one of the most important writers in the American canon The third in Irwin's trilogy of works on American writers F Scott Fitzgerald's Fiction resonates back through all of his previous writings both scholarly and poetic returning to Fitzgerald's ongoing theme of the twentieth century American protagonist's conflict between his work and his personal life This conflict is played out against the typically American imaginative activity of self creation an activity that involves a degree of theatrical ability on the protagonist's part as he must first enact the role imagined for himself which is to say the self he means to invent The work is suffused with elements of both Fitzgerald's and Irwin's biographies and Irwin's immense erudition is on display throughout Irwin seamlessly ties together details from Fitzgerald's life with elements from his entire body of work and considers central themes connected to wealth class work love jazz acceptance family disillusionment and life as theatrical performance Cinematic Fictions David Seed, 2012-01-01 The phrase cinematic fiction has now been generally accepted into critical discourse but is usually applied to post war novels This book asks a simple question given their fascination with the new medium of film did American novelists attempt to apply cinematic methods in their own writings From its very beginnings the cinema has played a special role in defining American culture Covering the period from the 1910s up to the Second World War Cinematic Fictions offers new insights into classics like The Great Gatsby and The Grapes of Wrath discussing major writers critical writings on film and active participation in film making Cinematic Fictions is also careful not to portray cinema as a single or stable entity Some novelists drew on silent film others looked to the Russian theorists for inspiration and yet others turned to continental film makers rather than to Hollywood Film itself was constantly evolving during the first decades of the twentieth century and the writers discussed here engaged in a kind of dialogue with the new medium selectively pursuing strategies of montage limited point of view and scenic composition towards their different ends Contrasting a diverse range of cinematic and literary movements this will be compulsory reading for scholars of American literature and film
