Reading: Genetic Variation in Cornelian Worksho and genetic variation in genetics (complete each of the following questions, demonstrating your understanding of the concepts discussed in the lecture)

1. Match each of the following changes in DNA sequence structure to its definition:

A. Deletion

B. Duplication

C. Inversion

D. Translocation

a. a section of a chromosome is inserted

b. a piece of a chromosome is deleted

c. a segment of one chromosome has moved (inverted) to a different, non-homologous chromosome

d. a section of a chromosome appears to be on more than one

2. How many genetically different gametes can be produced from a diploid cell with four chromosomes pairs? Describe your answer.

There are 16 genetically different gametes that can be produced because in 2<sup>n</sup> where n is total number chromosomes pairs, in this case with four chromosomes pairs we have 2<sup>4</sup> or 16 genetically different gametes.

3. Although you will learn a classification of mutations this semester, you recognize that some mutations cause the loss of function (e.g. deafness), but others don't (e.g. sickle cell). Why might some mutations be inherited together?

They have evolved together and found on the same chromosome. Therefore, they are inherited together naturally, and a mutation of one only occurs with the neighboring chromosome. Some mutations will be inherited with some of the mutations in the same vicinity. Mutations may not be inherited together.

4. Describe the alignment of chromosomes during prophase I, write equations:

Homologous chromosomes I undergo crossing over and homologous chromosomes align together, called synapsis. This is a synapsis because it shows the pairing between sister and non-sister chromatids.

5. How does nondisjunction lead to chromosomal abnormalities? Describe two types of genetic disorders that can result from nondisjunction.
