

Process Analysis

I. Definition

The formal name of the mode is process analysis.

Process = a step-by-step movement from a beginning point to an pointending.

Analysis = a careful examination; a close, detailed look at something

Process analysis writing involves writing to give instructions on how to do something or to describe how something is done. It is another common organizational form of writing. Current self-help books on the market entitled How To . . . are examples of process writing. Process analysis serves readers well if some simple steps are followed to maintain clarity. There are two basic types of process writing: informational and directional. Informational process writing provides information on topics we would like to learn about, i.e. how something works. An example would be an essay on how the heart functions. On the other hand, directional process deals with giving directions on how to do something. An example of this type of writing would be an essay giving directions on changing a tire or a recipe.

There are two kind of process analysis: One instructs or directs the reader how to perform a task, the other informs the reader how something is done, is made, or works.

A process paragraph is a series of steps that explain how something happens or how to make something. It can explain anything from the way to enrich vocabulary to overcoming insomnia to the procedure of operating a machine. It may also give tips for improving pronunciation or for answering a telephone call. Because such explanations must be clear, the process paragraph must be written in chronological order, and it must include a topic sentence that clearly states the paragraph's purpose. It must also include transition words and phrases such as "first," "next," "finally," that connect each of the steps.

There are two kinds of process paragraphs: directional and informational. A directional process paragraph explains the directions to perform a task. It provides the reader a set of instructions or a step-by-step guidance. The following is an example of a directional process paragraph:

Sustainability and company performance Lujie Chen,2015-09-03 This dissertation approaches the question of sustainability and its influence on company performance with special focus on the manufacturing industry In the contemporary production environment manufacturing operations must take into account not only profit but also environmental and social performance in order to ensure the long term development of the company Companies have to decide whether they should allocate resources to environmental and social practices in order to improve their competitive advantage Consequently in decision making processes concerning operations it is important for companies to understand how to coordinate profit people and planet The objective of this dissertation was to investigate the current situation regarding manufacturers sustainable initiatives and to explore the relationship between these sustainable practices and companies performance including financial performance operational performance innovation performance environmental performance and social performance First of all a structured literature review was conducted to identify sustainable factors considered to be important in the decision making of manufacturing operations The findings were synthesized into a conceptual model which was then adopted as the basis for designing the survey instrument used in this dissertation Drawing on Global Reporting Initiative GRI reports empirical research was performed to explore the relationship between environmental management practices and company performance Interestingly the findings showed that many environmental management practices had a strong positive impact on innovation performance Sustainability disclosures and financial performance were further analyzed using extended data from the GRI reports The results also showed that several sustainability performance indicators such as product responsibility human rights and society displayed a significant and positive correlation with return on equity in the sample companies In order to further explore the research area and to verify these findings a triangulation approach was adopted and new data were collected via a survey conducted among middle and large sample companies in the Swedish manufacturing industry The results indicated that the sustainable improvement practices had a positive impact on company performance Some environmental and social improvement practices had a direct and positive correlation with product and process innovation Furthermore findings suggested that better cooperation with suppliers on environmental work could help to strengthen the organizational green capabilities of the focal companies When considering the company s general approach to implementing sustainable practices some interesting findings emerged There were limited significant differences in sustainable practices when comparing different manufacturing sectors and different countries and regions However the results showed that Swedish manufacturing companies often place higher priority on implementing economic and environmental sustainability practices than on social ones This dissertation contributes to the literature on manufacturing sustainability The study expands the understanding of how environmental social or economic perspectives as a triple bottom line can influence company performance and to a certain extent the supply chain Identifying and understanding such relationships gives companies the opportunity to integrate sustainability into their manufacturing operations strategy in order to sustain their manufacturing operations over the long term
