communities It finds that amid state sponsored urbanization projects and in country migration the boundaries of Hui identity are contested primarily among groups of Hui rather than between Hui and the state As a result understandings of which daily habits should be considered proper or correct forms of Hui identity diverge along professional class regional sectarian and other lines By channeling contentious politics toward internal boundaries the state is able to manage ethnic politics and exert control

Muslim Societies in the Age of Mass Consumption Johanna Pink, 2020-07-13 In the course of the 20th century hardly a region in the world has escaped the triumph of global consumerism Muslim societies are no exception Globalized brands are pervasive and the landscapes of consumption are changing at a breathtaking pace Yet Muslim consumers are not passive victims of the homogenizing forces of globalization They actively appropriate and adapt the new commodities and spaces of consumption to their own needs and integrate them into their culture Simultaneously this culture is reshaped and reinvented to comply with the mechanisms of conspicuous consumption It is these processes that this volume seeks to address from an interdisciplinary perspective The papers in this anthology present innovative approaches to a wide range of issues that have so far barely received scholarly attention The topics range from the changing spaces of consumption to Islamic branding from the marketing of religious music to the consumption patterns of Muslim minority groups This anthology uses consumption as a prism through which to view and better understand the enormous transformations that Muslim societies Middle Eastern South East Asian as well as diasporic ones have undergone in the past few decades

Realizing Islam Zachary Valentine Wright, 2021-07-01 The Tijaniyya is the largest Sufi order in West and North Africa In this unprecedented analysis of the Tijaniyya's origins and development in the late eighteenth century Zachary Valentine Wright situates the order within the broader intellectual history of Islam in the early modern period Introducing the group's founder Ahmad al Tijani 1737-1815 Wright focuses on the wider network in which al Tijani traveled revealing it to be a veritable global Islamic revival whose scholars commanded large followings shared key ideas and produced literature read widely throughout the Muslim world They were linked through chains of knowledge transmission from which emerged vibrant discourses of renewal in the face of perceived social and political corruption Wright argues that this constellation of remarkable Muslim intellectuals despite the uncertainty of the age promoted personal verification in religious learning With distinctive concern for the notions of human actualization and a universal human condition the Tijaniyya emphasized the importance of the realization of Muslim identity Since its beginnings in North Africa in the eighteenth century the Tijaniyya has quietly expanded its influence beyond Africa with significant populations in the Middle East Southeast Asia and North America We are proud to offer this book in our usual print and ebook formats plus as an open access edition available through the Sustainable History Monograph Project
