

Map skills – Contour Lines

What are contour lines?

- Symbolic horizontal lines that:
 - * show the height of a slope/hill
 - * show the shape of a slope/hill
- Contour lines connect places on the same height

What is the function of contour lines?

- Providing information about the height and shape of landscape features – hills, river valleys, mountains

What is the contour interval?

- Distance between each contour line
- Contour lines can be every 20 m, 50 m or 100 m

Where do cartographers get information to make maps?

- From vertical aerial photos, satellite images, land surveys

$$\text{Gradient} = \frac{\text{vertical}}{\text{horizontal}}$$

Gradient – Steep

Steepest slope: big difference in height over a small distance

Steep slope: big difference in height over a small distance

Gentle slope: small difference in height over a larger distance

→ Bigger difference between two places

Tille Höyük 3.1 Stuart Blaylock, S. R. Blaylock, 2010-01-21

This book presents the structures and stratigraphy of the important Iron Age sequence at Tille Höyük, a mound at a crossing of the Euphrates in eastern Turkey. The site, which was excavated between 1979 and 1990 by the British Institute of Archaeology at Ankara, revealed ten major structural levels of the Iron Age spanning the period from the 11th century to the 6th century BC, as well as earlier and later remains. The wide exposure of architecture provides a sequence of intelligible and impressive building plans. After the initial discussion of the background and methodology of their excavation, the successive levels are carefully described and fully illustrated. The earliest Iron Age occupation, simple buildings among the ruins of the Late Bronze Age, was followed by a major settlement of the Middle Iron Age when the Neo-Hittite kingdom of Kummuh was at its height. Most impressive architecturally are a large palatial building centred on a courtyard paved with a pebble mosaic, which was probably built after the Assyrian annexation of Kummuh in 708 BC, and continued in use through the seventh century, and the excellently preserved Level X with many distinctively Persian architectural features built in the latter half of the 6th or the early 5th century and probably lasting for a substantial time. The structures and stratigraphy are also important as the context for the first rigorously established ceramic sequence in this part of Turkey, which will be presented together with the other materials and artefacts in the companion to this volume already complete in draft. Lying on the fringes of the Mesopotamian world and with contacts with North Syria, North Mesopotamia and the Levant rather than with Anatolia or the Mediterranean, Tille Höyük casts vivid new light on the cultural and political history of the region in the Iron Age.

Creatures of Fashion John Soluri, 2024-03-22 Today the mention of Patagonia and Tierra del Fuego conjures images of idyllic landscapes untouched by globalization. Creatures of Fashion unveils this revealing history of the exploitation of animals, terrestrial and marine, domesticated and wild, living and dead, which was central to the region's transformation from Indigenous lands into the national territories of Argentina and Chile. Drawing on evidence from archives and digital repositories, John Soluri traces the circulation of furs and fibers to explore how the power of fashion stretched far beyond Europe's houses of haute couture to entangle the fates of Indigenous hunters, migrant workers, and textile manufacturers with those of fur seals, guanacos, and sheep at the end of the world. From the nineteenth-century rise of commercial hunting to twentieth-century sheep ranching to contemporary conservation-based tourism, Soluri's narrative explains how struggles for control over the production of commodities and the reproduction of animals drove the social and environmental changes that tied Patagonia to global markets, empires, and wildlife conservation movements. By exposing seams in national territories and global markets knit together by force, this book provides perspectives and analyses vital for understanding contemporary conflicts over mass consumption, the conservation of biodiversity, and struggles for environmental justice in Patagonia and beyond.
