Mshana,2018-01-22 Community Secondary Schools are the majority secondary schools in Tanzania These are schools built by community initiatives with the aim of helping more children acquire a secondary education Despite this good intention these schools face a number of challenges One such challenge has to do with academic performance This book investigates this challenge It examines the factors that contribute to students poor performance in the community secondary schools in Tanzania to discern the main factors contributing to their poor performance Many factors contribute to students poor performance such as lack of support from parents on educational issues teachers and students attitudes and perceptions on education inadequate learning and teaching materials and resources learning and teaching environments as well as lack of adequate motivation for teachers and students This book explores these challenges and proposes future prospects to make such schools have efficient performance in Tanzania and other places of the world they are found     Infrastructures for

Peace in Sub-Saharan Africa Mediel Hove,Geoff Harris,2019-06-14 Cultures of violence are characteristic of many countries in sub Saharan Africa and attempts to move towards cultures of peace have often proved difficult and ineffectual And yet the wide variations in levels of violence within and between countries show that it is not inevitable rather it is the result of choices made at individual community and societal levels This book examines the potential of peace infrastructures as vehicles to strengthen and spread progress towards cultures of peace Peace infrastructures vary hugely in sophistication and level The examples examined in this book range from tiny structures which help resolve conflicts between individuals and within community organisations peace committees which serve local communities peace education and peace club programmes in schools mediation mechanisms to prevent election violence and to ministries of peace to coordinate government and non government efforts in peacemaking and peacebuilding The overall finding is that the development of peace infrastructures at all levels has great potential to build cultures of peace 1 It is the only book available which documents the experience and potential of nonviolence in post independence sub Saharan Africa 2 It makes a persuasive case for the development of various peace infrastructures in order to make peace sustainable 3 It explains how strategic planning can be utilised both to bring about change and to institutionalise it     Economic Management in a

Drawing upon a range of theoretical perspectives including cultural studies postcolonial theory critical race studies political economy and sociology Journalism Culture and Society examines journalism as a democratic necessity that often fails to live up to its promise This text takes a step back from prevailing idealistic approaches in which theory is often seen as a threat rather than a service to the better understanding of practice and mainstream journalism in western democracies is seen as unproblematic Instead using international examples the authors provide a critique for those who seek to improve journalistic practice whilst not losing sight of the profound practical dilemmas that journalists around the world experience in their working lives from the resources available to them to the institutions and political contexts in which they work Readers are encouraged to consider why journalists choose or are expected to choose particular subjects or tropes in their work and the implications of these choices Journalism Culture and Society is a valuable resource for students academics and practitioners in the areas of media journalism and communication

From climate risk to resilience: Unpacking the economic impacts of climate change in Mozambique Detelinova, Iva, Thomas, Timothy S., Tian, Junyan, Hammond, Wole, Arndt, Channing, 2023-11-13 Mozambique is already vulnerable to extreme weather events and climate change is projected to exacerbate their frequency and intensity The occurrence of cyclones and flooding has increased in recent years and the trend is expected to continue The country's coast where 60 percent of the population the three biggest cities and critical infrastructure are situated is most exposed to climate change related risks including damage from cyclones and projected sea level rise Densely populated and low lying regions such as Zambezia Nampula Sofala and Maputo Provinces are particularly exposed to risks from flooding More broadly climate change is projected to increase average temperatures across the country and to result in higher variability in precipitation especially in the south The most critical economic sectors vulnerable to climate change in Mozambique are agriculture transport and potentially energy In agriculture maize is likely to be the most affected key crop This can pose risks to food security alongside expected higher food inflation because of climate change given maize's widespread cultivation and role in nutrition The impact on other crops is likely to be more limited and to a large extent driven by damages from increased frequency of extreme weather events This could exacerbate challenges in the sector which is already constrained by low productivity and limited arable areas That said climate change could create some opportunities for example rice yields are projected to improve Most studies project agricultural production in the central region to be most adversely affected by climate change albeit the impact varies by crop and within regions Mozambique's transport infrastructure is highly vulnerable to climate change due to the projected increase in flooding the low proportion of paved roads their limited interconnectivity and the vulnerability of ports to cyclones and storm surges Damages to Mozambique s transport sector are likely to have knock on effects to other sectors and can have significant regional implications as the country serves as a conduit for landlocked neighboring countries Infrastructure damages alongside the projected coastal erosion may severely affect the tourism sector Furthermore Mozambique s high dependence on hydropower exposes it to losses from rainfall variability which is expected to increase The country s largest hydropower plant is located downstream on the Zambezi River which various studies project to dry up due to climate change Increased water use in upstream countries such as because of greater irrigation needs and in response to growing populations could also pose risks to Mozambique s hydropower sector

National extension policy and state-level implementation: The case of Cross River State, Nigeria Ogunniyi, Adebayo, Babu, Suresh Chandra, Balana, Bedru, Andam, Kwaw S., 2020-07-15 Agricultural extension plays a number of important roles in the growth and transformation of the agricultural sector including improving agricultural productivity and food security and reducing hunger and malnutrition Extension programs and interventions that will achieve significant impacts in terms of behavior and practice changes as well as agricultural productivity increase will succeed as a result of suitable policy formulation and an effective implementation process Ultimately agricultural extension reform requires policy vision and determination and a state level strategy that can be implemented This paper documents issues challenges constraints and potential solutions and opportunities in implementing the national extension policy NEP at the state level in Nigeria using Cross River State as a case study We use both quantitative and qualitative methods in the form of descriptive statistical analysis and an inclusive consultative process with a focus on the multistakeholder participatory model respectively The descriptive results show that generally there is low access to agricultural extension service across commodities and their respective value chains in Cross River State We also document interesting insights from the multistakeholder consultative process We find that collaboration and partnership between private and public extension service providers is key to developing a sustainable extension advisory and support service in Cross River State We also found that coordination and standardization of the activities of the extension service providers is a way to avoid pollution of the agricultural innovation system in the state Funding of extension services is another important factor affecting the effective implementation of the NEP We therefore suggest that agricultural extension services can be funded through decentralization involvement of farmers associations and nongovernmental organizations contracting out of extension services public private partnerships privatization and embedding advisory services in other types of contracts The results of this study further validate our approach of using multistakeholder engagement at the state level as an effective and insightful method of implementing the NEP at the state level
