Ross Leadbeater, 2014-03-05 The first edition of Growing Up Fast attempted to counter the stereotype of poor minority adolescent mothers and describe the diversity of their educational work parenting and relationship experiences The volume followed a strengths based approach to understanding why some mothers appeared resilient to the stresses of early parenting compared to their peers and what obstacles undermine resiliency for some of these young women We hear their stories in their own words We also see how many disadvantaged mothers go on to succeed in school work and parenting while avoiding many of the risk associated with teen parenting The research is based on a six year study of 120 young disadvantaged mothers and their children from New York City It uniquely combines the analysis of longitudinal questionnaire data with qualitative analysis of extensive interviews conducted with these women focusing on the first six years after their child was born A past winner of the Society for Research on Adolescence best book award Growing Up Fast is a fascinating study of human resilience that will continue to be recognized for its contribution to individuals involved in program development and policymaking with teenage parenting A new introductory chapter to the book suggests that we can look at the previous findings through a new lens that emphasizes not only the diversity of outcomes for young mothers and the sources of their strengths but also asks what we can learn from these women about supporting their educational and work goals as they transition to adulthood New attention to emerging adulthood shows that this is a critical stage of life when the foundations for health and healthy life styles are laid down Developmental tasks of this phase include building the capacity for financial and residential independence through post secondary education and job training and establishing stable sources of support from parents romantic partners and peers for all youth Leadbeater addresses the societal changes that make these tasks particularly salient for young women and focuses attention on how we can support youth who make this transition with children Growing Up and Living in Hell , When I Grow Up...I Want To Be A Daughter Of The King Eva Michele Bowman, 2014-07-26 This book is to share my story of how I overcame my past of guilt and shame through the love and power of Jesus Christ Growing Up on the Set Tom Goldrup, Jim Goldrup, 2015-10-06 Former child actor Paul Petersen once said Fame is a dangerous drug and should be kept out of the reach of children It is certainly true that many child actors have fallen prey to the dangers of fame and suffered for it later in life but others have used fame to their advantage and gone on to even more successful careers in adulthood This work is a compilation of interviews with 39 men and women who as children worked in the motion picture industry in Hollywood They all handled their childhood celebrity differently Lee Aaker Mary Badham Baby Peggy Sonny Bupp Ted Donaldson Edith Fellows Gary Gray Jimmy Hunt Eilene Janssen Marcia Mae Jones Sammy McKim Roger Mobley Gigi Perreau Jeanne Russell Frankie Thomas Beverly Washburn Johnny Whitaker and Jane Withers are among those interviewed They talk candidly about their experiences on and off the set the people they worked with and what they did after their careers ended The pros and cons of being a child actor and the effects that it had on them later in life are discussed at great length
